GRANGER PICNIC ENDED

Friday and Saturday Were the Closing Days.

HON. WILLIAM F. HILL SPEAKS

A Grand Concert on Saturday Morning Given by Some of the Young Ladies.

MISS FLORENCE RHONE RECITES.

"Hello there, REPUBLICAN, are you still alive in your tent?" was asked of us the next morning after the fearful storm on Thursday evening. Yes, thank goodness, we escaped without even getting wet, but many people were soaked, both inside and out. It was certainly an experience we, and many others, do not wish to pass through soon again.

The wind was simply awful and as it began to blow ye editor and two more able-bodied men clung to the poles and held the tent solid. This storm did so much damage and so many got so wet that really it was the means of breaking up camp. Although Friday was a perfect day, the wind and rain had subsided and the ground was beginning to pack very solid, and by 10 o'clock the walking was fine. Friday morning we thought we would examine and see what damage had been done.

The first one we called on was Mr. Hunting. He certainly was very misfortunate; everything he possessed was nearly ruined by the storm. Some of his performers were injured, his canvas was literally torn to pieces, a good many of his poles were broken, his lamps were nearly all ruined, and, taking it all in all, his luck was not of the best. He estimated his loss at about $300. We next called on Mr. Wilson, who had charge of the Caroussell. He told us his loss could not be covered with $200, as his canvas was totally ruined, a good many of his wooden horses were broken and some of his machinery was broken also. We next called on the gentleman who had the museum. Well, he was pretty well knocked out of existence as quite a number of his finest and largest snakes took their departure and thought they would go calling. and "Oh the fun," when it was known through camp that the snakes were out; why you couldn't see a woman any place on the streets, and before that they were all women; and if you would ever mention the word snake the women would all jump upon tables and benches, that's no joke, and you could hear them all over camp screamihg for dear life; and it was a pity to, as it spoiled all their pleasure, because they couldn't look for snakes and bonnets at the same time. They only wanted to play "hide and go seek" with them and the foolish women wouldn't let them; anyway it afforded lots of fun for the boys and men. A young lady told us she dreamed all night about snakes. Now she must have really been drinking something stronger than rain water or red lemonade, or the snakes wouldn't have bothered her dreams.

The rain of the night before came directly from the west, and everything that was on the west side of the tent got perfectly soaked. A young lady who was visiting one of the tent holders, had all her clothes pinned against this side of the tent, and the rain didn't do a thing to them. The next morning she went into Centre Hall and bought a clothes ringer and hired two little boys to wring the water out of them for her. Of course you know whom we mean, and we may say right here that this young lady has made arrangements with one of Centre Hall's young men and it won't be long until a happy wedding takes place. How about it Miss Carrie?

The night it rained so hard we had company over night, and we needed just a little more sleeping capacity and so our next tent neighbor was very kind and offered us enough room for one person in their tent. Oscar was elected to sleep in this tent, although it was among the feminine sex. He was a little backward at first but with a little encouragement he cheerfully went and joy went with him. He had very quietly gone to bed and was nearly asleep, when one of the young ladies, who had been out calling, came in, and before retiring went up to poor Oscar's cot and kissed him, saying "good night Johnny." She repeated this over three times when Oscar realized what was going on. He screamed at the top of his voice "murder, fire; I am not your Johnny." The young lady had made a mistake, thinking this was her brother Johnny. Of course she fainted right away. Now we have just given you a synopsis of this and if you want the full particulars just write to "Oscar," in care of the REPUBLICAN office, and he will very kindly tell you all. He left the next morning on the first train.

In the auditorium Friday afternoon two very able addresses were made by Prof. Gramley and Hon. Wm. F. Hill. Both were mostly based on the common schools of our country. They were very interesting and instructive.

As there was nothing of very much importance happening on the grounds, beside the speaking in the auditorium, a crowd of boys and girls, we suppose any way there must have been about twenty in all, thought they would in some way break the monotony that existed, so they decided to play what is called sweep. They would take a hold of one another's hand and would sweep down upon people and circle around them. These young ladies and gentlemen were making one of their grand sweeps upon a crowd of young men when one of the men caught hold of "Grace" and gave her a good tight squeeze. Oh, my! How embarrassed she was, so she decided right there and then that she wasn't going to play any more.

In the evening the auditorium was crowded again as it had been announced in the afternoon that the Hon. William F. Hill would address the audience in the evening. Mr. Hill is Lecturer of the Pa. State Grange. He followed Mr. Gramley's work on common schools in the afternoon and made an able address in the evening.

Mr. Hill said that the propositition to grade the work in the district schools of Centre county was a movement in the line of progress. The system has been in operation in Crawford county for several years and from personal experience with it as teacher, school director and an observer of results, he was convinced that it was a desirable innovation. We ought not to be satisfied with our present status of school work whatever that may be. It should be our earnest desire to make the school life of our boys and girls productive of best practical results possible, from the expenditure of a given amount of time on their part and taxes on part of the parents. Therefore any movement that tends to that end should enlist favorable attention and active co-operation from all with a view to getting more nearly value received from the taxes we pay. We do not always get the worth of our school tax money in practical results. The design of this movement is to enable us to realize more from the amount of tax we already pay. Mr. Hill is opposed to increasing taxes of any kind for the farmer upon genial principles. Taxes have reached too high a limit already in many sections but if the people will take matters in their own hands and examine conditions at close range, cutting off injudicious and unfruitful expenditures, he believes that reform and improvement will follow. A well regulated and properly conducted Subordinate Grange is an ideal type of school for the farmer. In the Grange we talk over school matters for our boys and girls and perhaps we will discuss the feasibility of having only one or two graded schools in a township and conveying the pupils to them in covered vehicles as they have been doing for several years in Massachusettes, Rhode Island and parts of a few other states. Possibly we will determine that it is more in the line of economy to establish the practice of taking the pupil to the school than to take the school house and all its appurtences to the pupil. While individual opinion among members differ as to the most feasible plan for accomplishing best results, yet progress is the watchword of the Grange, and it may ever be found on the side of the Farmer, blazing the way to educational opportunities for country children, equal to those enjoyed by other classes

In the evening Mr. Hill's remarks were upon the line of the efficiency of organization. He prefaced his remarks and illustrated his point very nicely by refering to the miners' organization in western Pennsylvania, and spoke at some length upon the conditions from which they had sought redress.

If farmers would unite and stand by each other and their organization the Grange conditions upon the farm could soon be materially changed for the better. It is the largest single industry having 42 per cent. of the entire population of this country associated with it. They raise the food products for themselves and families as well as for the remaining fifty eight per cent., and furnish a large volume of goods for export to foreign countries. Such an industry merits careful protection from our law making bodies. In order to insure our receiving it, it behooves us to exercise care in the selection of public officials. Recognize merit not party service. Lay aside party for principle, predjudice for patriotism, are Grange teachings. The speaker touched upon some of the results achieved by the Grange to which we point with pride. The Patrons and people of Centre county can well congratulate themselves upon having this picnic enterprise, fire insurance, etc., under sole direction of the Grange in their midst.

He was followed by Mrs. Helen Johnston who gave an excellent address. She is a lady that can please any kind of an audience and we believe if she wanted to, could hold and audience without tiring them for two hours. Her talk was on the same line and principal as our friend Mr. Hills was, she brought out some very instructive points, which benefited every person present.

Miss Florence Rhone was then introduced, and recited a comic recitation, entitled, "Down in Injun Bay," we wish to congratulate Miss Rhone, for the most excellent way she delivered this recitation.

Miss Florence is the youngest daughter of our Honored Worthy Master Leonard Rhone, she is one of the most pleasant and obliging young ladies in Centre Co. She also possesses a very sweet disposition which adds greatly to the honor of the young lady. Between some of the speeches made that night two solos were sung. Misses Weaver, Dale, Rhoades, made a few very interesting addresses which greatly pleased the audience The excellent choir under the leadership of Mr. Dale rendered some very good music. Those who were in the choir were Rev. Dr. Frank McCoy, and Dr. Woods Bathgate both young men have excellent bass voices Misses May Rhone and Carrie Kauffman, both have beautiful alto voices, they are well cultivated and very sweet. The Misses Sankeys who are both sweet soprana singers assisted to swell the chorous. It was said when the last hymn was sung entitled "When a Hundred Years have Rolled," that the beautiful strains of music could be heard in Centre Hall.

Saturday, was what we might call tear up day, as everybody was doing that, and moving to there home as fast as possible, and it was't very long until the grounds were deserted except by the Worthy Masters family and a few friends who were visiting them, about ten o'clock a crowd of young and old folks gathered in the auditorum and gave a little play entitled. "I am not your Johnie." It was certainly very comical. The young ladies who took the most prominent parts were Misses May Rhone, Carrie Kauffman, Florence Rhone, Jennie Odenkirk, and Miss Brisbin and a young Mr. Hill took the part of the villian. The audience was large and very highly pleased the proceeds went toward a new bicyle seat that was taken from off one of the young ladies wheels. In the afternoon Misses Kauffman and Rhone, and Mr. Hill left for the Rhone home on the farm, but before starting these girls filled Mr. Hill's satchel full of old shoes and stones and had this poor man carry this load nearly a half mile before he got on to the joke, but he has vowed up and down that he would get even with them. Sunday was a quiet day at the Park; the men had nearly all the tents down and in the cars, and by Tuesday you wouldn't have known a picnic had been held on the grounds. Everybody has left except Mr. Rhone and his excellent wife, who are overseeing to the work so that it is done properly. Mr. Rhone deserves a good deal of credit, for the way he works to keep this Grange to the front. He has successfully won the laurels of all his many farmer friends and if at any time he should ask for a public office we will do all in our power to help him along.

Some Fine Racing.

Tuesday evening, about 5:30 hundreds of people, both men and women, gathered along the pike near the black barn, about a half mile from Axe Mann, to witness the racing. The road was too narrow for them to give any satisfaction, but they showed the speed of their horses in grand style. "Henrietta," a beautiful bay mare, was driven by Mr. Larimer. "Orabie," one of the fastest horses in Centre county, belonging to Mr. Shem Speiglemyer, was present and done some fast running. A few weeks ago we published the pedigree of this horse.

"Headlight," a beautiful bay horse, driven by Mr. Isaac Lose, showed his speed in grand style. The last one was "Mills," driven by Mr. Mart Garman. "Mills" is one of the prettiest horses ever brought to Bellefonte, and with the rest of Mr. Garman's horses come from the finest stock in the United States.

THE INCENDIARY'S WORK.

The Evans Breaker Near Hazleton Burned to the Ground.

WAS IDLE FOR ALMOST A WEEK

Fire Was Discovered About 7 O'clock Last Evening—Could Not Be Checked on Account of Scarcity of Water.

GENERAL GOBIN TALKS A LITTLE

HAZELTON, Pa., September 21.—The Evans breaker of A. S. Van Wickel & Co., operated by Kennedy & Warner, at Beaver Meadow, four miles from here, was burned to the ground to-night. The operators are convinced that it was incendiary. The loss will be about $50,000. The breaker has been idle since noon last Tuesday, not in consequence of the strike, but on account of a lack of water. Tapping for water was to have been begun to-morrow and the breaker would have resumed work immediately. Mr. Warner said that so far as he knew nobody had been about the breaker all day, none of the boilers was working, and he could see no possibility of accident, especially in view of the fact that the flames originated at the top of the breaker, eighty feet above the ground. About fifty men were employed in the breaker and several hundred in the mine connected with it. All these men have been working continuously since the Lattimer shooting. They were driven out on two occasions about two weeks ago by bands of strikers from Coleraine, but returned afterwards. Mr. Warner declares that they had no grievances. There is a well-founded theory that women had a hand in the fire, as one was heard to say to-day: "If we can't get the men out, we'll fix it so they can't get in."

So far as has been discovered the fire broke out at about 7 o'clock this evening. The first intimation of it received by the people of Hazelton was the rising of columns of smoke and showers of sparks above the black line of hills flanking the eastern part of the city. A telephone message to Messrs. Kennedy & Warner, who were both in Hazleton, fixed the locality of the fire and they hurriedly drove over. The most intense excitement prevailed throughout the town, and the desolate mountain road leading to Beaver Meadow road was crowded with teams and bicycles bearing people to the burning breaker.

That the gigantic structure was doomed to total destruction was a foregone conclusion. It would have been a physical impossibility for the Hazleton engines to reach the scene within an hour or more, and even then there would have been little water at their disposal. What little was available was utilized by the brigade regularly attached to the mines, but the thin streams were powerless upon the huge sheets of flame which spouted into the skies and threw their wierd reflections upon the gaunt trees and hill tops of the surrounding country.

By direction of the operators the first work of the mine firemen was directed to preventing the flames from reaching the mine slope. As an effective precaution the planes leading to the slope were blown up by eight or ten blasts of dynamite. The efforts of another part of the fire brigade were concentrated upon keeping the flames from the boiler house, a couple of hundred feet from the breaker. A short distance in the old direction were the powder houses, but all the powder was removed to a safe distance. The mine mules were also taken out of the stable and taken to place of safety. At 10 o'clock the breaker was still blazing viciously and the strongest kind of work was being done to prevent further spread of the flames,

General Gobin knew none of the details of the fire until told by the Associated Press correspondent. He said: "If they are beginning to apply the torch, the situation is grave indeed, They are doing the very thing that will prevent them from working or obtaining the redress they are asking." Referring to a map of the coal fields, he continued: "You see they have selected the breaker furthest from my troops. The nearest soldiers to that point are those of the Twelfth regiment. To reach there the men will have to march. There is no means of transportation."

Asked the effect of the fire upon the proposed withdrawal of the militia, the brigade commander said: "The troops cannot be moved while they are burning breakers. There is danger of imitation in other sections."

Captain Paxton, of the regular army, was present during the interview and agreed with General Gobin. The latter added that he would send a detachment of cavalry to the burned breaker in the morning.

Look for Next Week's Issue.

Mrs. Sophia Hall has very kindly sent a sketch of all the old professors' lives who taught in the Boalsburg Academy, but the copy arrived too late for this week's issue, so we will give a full and complete account next week. It will certainly be of interest to all the old students of the Boalsburg Academy.

Ed Harris Surprised.

Monday several of the young society people of the town arranged a little surprise party for Doctor Edward Harris. They took his mother Mrs. John P. Harris, into the secret and the result was Ed was kept at home and twenty of his young lady and gentleman friends put in their appearance at the Harris home Monday night about 8 o'clock. Ed was completely surprised but quickly recovered and proceeded to make it pleasant for his guests. A very enjoyable evening was spent dancing, singing and playing games.

Met With a Painful Accident.

Mrs. Geo. Harbaugh of Curtin St. met with a painful accident last Thursday evening while returning from the entertainment of the Parks Sisters at Garman's Opera House. There is an uneven place in the walks between the Graham and McClain residence and it was at this place that Mrs. Harbaugh made a misstep which tore the mussels of her already weak limb. She was carried in to Dr. Seibert's office, where her injuries received careful attention and from there she was conveyed to her home in a cab.

We understand that she is much more comfortable at present, but suffered much pain during the first few days after the accident.

Pennsylvania Peach Crop Large

Chief Clerk Shock, of the department of agriculture, says that the peach crop of this season has been the largest in the history of the state. So burdened with the luscious fruit have the orchards been that the peaches in many of them are smaller than usual, but are firm and well matured. The fruit is so plentiful that growers are enabled to ship only the finest specimens to the market. Carloads of peaches from Mifflin and other counties, where the orchards are extensive, ship their product principally to Pittsburg and the western section of the state. Many crates are shipped in refrigerator cars to points farther west.

A one Legged Man Climbing Poles.

A one legged lineman with a cork leg is climbing poles in the telephone gang now operating in this section and has no difficulty in climbing poles with the spurs ordinarily used. A short time since, while fixing a wire at the top of a pole in Williamsport, he caught hold of a live electric wire and would have been killed had not a comrade who saw the accident immediately cut the wire.—Tyrone Herald.

Suppose He Tries it, Himself.

A professional acrobat says that a person may stand erect with his arms in at his sides, and if he has sufficient courage to make the attempt, fall flat on his chest or back without the slightest injury or bruise. He has merely to incline his head forward or backward, as the case may be, hold his breath, and make no effort whatever to save himself.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER.

Peter Mendis In Jail for a Murder Committed Two Years Ago.

A genuine sensation was sprung last evening when Peter Mendis an Italian rag picker and carpet cleaner was arrested for the murder of James Maria, his partner, on Jan. 7th, 1896. The arrest was made at 6 o'clock. The district attorney and the coroner have been investigating it for some time with the above result. They claim to have a strong case against the prisoner.

Maria died under very suspicous circumstances and it was claimed he bled to death. He was buried the following day at the expense of the boro, Mendis claiming that the man did not leave enough money for that purpose. It is now believed that the man had money and that the prisoner poisoned him and stole his money. Mendis had nothing to say in his own defense.

BEHIND THE COUNTER

BY HELEN FORREST GRAVES.

"It must be a music box that plays at least seven tunes," said Mrs. Wrangley, "and one of them must be 'Annie Laurie;' and I can't possibly afford to give more than seventy dollars."

"I'll speak to Mr. Malcolm, the proprietor," said Miss Elson, the girl behind the counter, a little bewildered by the loud voice and the overwhelming presence of the stout lady in the seal-skin coat and the flashing diamond ear-drops, who stood opposite her.

"But I'm in a hurry" said Mrs. Wrangley, imperiously. "Can't you show me some music boxes? It seems to me that you must all be very stupid here."

"I'll speak to Mr. Malcolm, ma'am," said Ella Elson, who was accustomed, mutely, to receive and endure insolence as is the "Aunt Sally" of lawn games to be buffeted and maltreated.

And Mr. Malcolm came, all smiles, to minister to the whims of the rich customer, whose carriage flashed back the sunshine at the door.

"Ma, ain't she pretty?" whispered Miss Amandina Wrangley, an overgrown girl of fourteen, leaning her elbows on the show case. "I say, ma, won't you buy me something new! Won't you, ma? What's this? A canary! I didn't know they kept birds here."

"It is an automaton," smiled Mr. Malcolm, who had just reached down an ebony music box, inlaid with glistening mother-of-pearl ornament. "Miss Elson, wind up that bird. Let Miss Wrangley hear. Yes, ma'am," to the elderly lady, "this instrument has 'Annie Laurie' in its repertoire, also."

Miss Ella Elson wound up the artificial songster, set it where Miss Amandina could feast her ears and eyes on its beauty, and then turned to show backgammon boards to a new customer.

In a second—or, at least, so it would seem—there was a crash! The bird cage was overturned, the brilliant plumed songster crushed, and the solid sheet of glass that formed the top of the show case splintered into a score of broken fragments.

Mr. Malcolm's hair bristled with surprise and indignation, as he turned to view the general ruin.

"Miss Elson!" he exclaimed, wrathfully, "how did this happen?"

"I am sure, sir, I do not know," said poor Ella, who was as much frightened as if the ceiling had fallen. "I was showing this gentleman a backgammon board——"

"Do not attempt to cover your faults by falsehood," sternly spoke the proprietor. "It could only have been your carelessness!"

While Miss Amandina Wrangley, the actual culprit, stood staring at the overthrow, and lacked the moral courage to confess her own guilt.

"Ma would be so cross if she had to pay for the artificial bird," said Miss Amandina to herself. "And maybe she won't buy me the music box, and, anyhow, I dare say, the shop-girl won't mind a little scolding."

"If you did not do it, Miss Elson," said Mr. Malcolm, majestically, "who did?"

"I don't know, sir," Ella answered, with varying color, "but it was not I."

"Don't contradict me," said the proprietor.

"I must speak the truth," said Ella, pleadingly. "You ask me, and ——"

"That will do," said Mr. Malcolm, waving his hand. "I am not accustomed to bandy words with my employees. Go to Miss Mason. She will settle with you to date. I shall not require your services any longer."

Miss Elson turned and obeyed, although a blur seemed to come before her eyes and a deadly weight oppressed the beating of her heart.

"Very proper," said Mrs. Wrangley, approvingly. "The young woman needs discipline. She seems both obstinate and stupid."

While Amandina, clinging close to her mother's side, still maintained a resolute silence.

* * * * * * * * * *

The late afternoon sunshine was just fading out of the little room under the roof of a ruinous old building near the docks, where Mrs. Elson sat at work for a dealer in artificial flowers, and was making jacqueminot roses for a large order from a Bowery milliner.

She was a pale little woman,- who spent her life in a rolling-chair—she had long ago lost the use of her limbs—and on the floor beside her sat a child of eight years playing with the damaged bits of red silk discarded by her mother's quick fingers.

She looked up with an exclamation as the door opened.

"Mamma," she cried, "it's Ella!"

"Ella!" exclaimed Mrs. Elson. "Home at this time of day? My dearest, what has happened?"

"I am discharged, mamma!" said Ella, endeavoring to speak firmly. "I have lost my situation!"

And then, flinging herself on the floor at her mother's side, she buried her face in the poor cripple's lap and burst out crying.

While all this was transpiring, something more similar still had taken place at the store where the automaton bird had sung its last cantata, and the music box that played "Annie Laurie" was being carefully packed up. Mrs. Wrangley was just turning to the door, when a stout gentleman, who had been sitting on a red velvet stool near the entrance, rose up—a ponderous individual, with fur linings to his coat collar, and a red silk pocket handkerchief tied around his neck.

"Ahm!" said the stout man, with a nod.

"Why, it's Uncle Rob!" said Amandina.

"Oh, my brother!" said Mrs. Wrangley. "Why, Robert, when did you come in?"

"Ive been here some time," said Mr. Robert Rudford; "I've been waiting for you to get through and recognize me. Upon my word, Serena, you're a capital hand at driving a bargain. I couldn't have bought that music-box to better advantage. Why, the shopman didn't have the shadow of a chance."

Mrs. Wrangley bit her lip, but she smiled. Uncle Rudford was a person of too much importance not to be allowed to have his own way, even in the matter of making disagreeable remarks.

"But it wasn't quite the fair thing of you, niece Amandina," went on this terrible old gentleman, "to let that poor shop girl lose her place for your clumsiness in tipping that automaton bird over, and breaking the cover of the showcase. Was it now? Answer me honestly!"

Amandina Wrangley hung down her head.

"What!" cried Mrs. Wrangley.

"I saw it all," said the old gentleman; "I know Malcolm. I've lent him money to carry on this very business, and I shall speak to him. Don't look so frightened, niece Amandina. You're not going to be arrested. Only let it be a lesson to you through life, that you can't do a mean action without its being found out. Is this your carriage, Serena? Let me help you in."

And the next half-hour tête-a-tête with her mother was not a particularly pleasant one for Miss Amandina Wrangley.

"Just as your uncle was beginning to be a little fond of you, too!" said the indignant matron; "and now he's thoroughly disenchanted; Amandina, I couldn't believe this of you."

"But, ma," whispered Amandina, "you didn't tell the storekeeper one day when you knocked the cut-glass cologne bottle off the counter and broke it. You said it was his business to look after his own goods. You told me——"

"Will you hold your tongue, miss?" said Mrs. Wrangley, with acerbity. "It's strange how little judgment girls have!"

After due reflection she went to Malcolm's the next day to inquire how much damage she was liable for in the matter of her daughter's carelessness, but was told that Mr. Rudford had settled all that.

"Dear, dear," said Mrs. Wrangley, "things are getting worse and worse. Your Uncle Robert is just enough of a modern Don Quixote to go chasing around town and hunt up the pert shop-miss and restore her to her place. Men are such fools where there is a pretty girl concerned."

"I don't think she's pretty a bit," said Amandina, sullenly.

"Be quiet, Amandina!" said her mother, sharply. "You've done quite enough mischief already."

Mrs. Wrangley proved a true prophet. Uncle Bob, who had no particular business of his own to mind, had an especial penchant for the minding of other people's affairs. He obtained Mrs. Elson's address from Mr. Malcolm, and went straight to the old house on the docks, where a dealer in marine stores occupied the ground floor, a family of Polish refugees worked in ivory on the second, and the top sheltered Mrs. Elson and her two daughters.

"My girl," he said to Ella, who sat disconsolately by the window, trying to mend little Mary's frock, "it's all right. You're to go back to Malcolm's tomorrow, just as if nothing at all had happened. It was my niece, Amandina, who broke the bird and smashed the showcase. Good gracious me!" looking around him—"you don't mean to say that you live in this little hole under the roof?"

And Mr. Rudford stared around him, and drew a prodigiously long breath.

"We are very glad, sir, to have so good a home as this," said Mrs. Elson, meekly. "Rents are high and——"

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Rudford, "I know. Dear, dear me; how unequally things are divided in this world! Now, I've got a nice little place in Harlem, on the line of the elevated road—a cottage with a bit of garden, and an apple tree. I'd be glad to get some responsible party to occupy it, just for the winter, to see that it don't go to wreck and ruin. I shan't expect any rent—only a little reasonable oversight. Come, what do you say?"

"We shall be so grateful," was all that Mrs. Elson could answer. But her eyes were most eloquent.

Ella went back to the store next day. Mr. Malcolm, who knew what Mr. Robert Rudford's favor was worth, made a meek apology to Miss Elson, and hoped that she would overlook any trifling asperity with which he might have spoken in the vexation of the moment. And all was serene once more.

"What!" Mrs. Wrangley cried. "My brother has established those upstarts, rent free, in his Harlem cottage! Now I can read it all, from beginning to end. He'll marry that shop girl as sure as fate."

But he did not. Mrs. Wrangley was mistaken for once.

"What do I want of a chit of a girl young enough to be my daughter?" said Mr. Rudford. And he married the pretty, dove-eyed little cripple instead.

An if you ever saw a tender-hearted child playing with a Dresden china doll, you can form some idea of the loving care wherewith he protected his fragile little wife from life's cares and ills.

"Sister Serena doesn't like it," said he. "Very well. I don't marry to please sister Serena, but to please myself."

Which was sound philosophy, after all.

CLOSE OF GRANGER PICNIC

10,000 People In Attendance Yesterday At Grange Park.

MOST SUCCESSFUL HELD FOR YEARS

The Speakers Thursday, Were Hon. David Lubin, Helen Johnson, Wm. L. Nesbit, W. H. Hill, Dr. J. T. Rothrock and Ex-Senator Brown.

BUT IT HAD TO RAIN AFTER ALL.

ers. The teaching of the Grange is, that we think and investigate for ourselves, and endeavor as far as possible to give due weight to all the bearings in the case.

Men follow too much president and party. It is popular these times, to deplore the influx of ignorant foreigners and to point out the menace they are to our institutions and I have nothing to say in defense of the man who comes here with no intention to make this country his home, and to acquaint himself with our laws and our institutions, but when I see intelligent substantial citizens divide on the questions of the day on party line alone; I ask who is after all the dangerous citizen. Many I know last fall, who voted for silver would have voted for gold and just as many the other way if the Republicans, at St. Louis, had declared for silver and the Democrats, at Chicago, had put a gold plank in their platform. As long as the majority of our citizens will be thus led by party, is the country safe?

In the Grange we seek to encourage independent thought and action. If men will vote intelligently and honestly, the country will be safe.

As an individual, each man should push his business with all his might, dealing honestly of course with his fellows, but as a citizen and a member of the brotherhood of man, he should remember that he has duties that lie beyond his own threshold, and that he should seek the common good of humanity.

Some men who are prosperous themselves, seem to think that "Whatever is, is right." Such men have little patience with reformers, but however near it may be, few will contend that the milennium is fully here. Till it comes all should work to better social and economical condition. In this the intelligent, honest farmer must play an important part. Nothing can help so much to fit him for this as the Grange.

After Mr. Ailman's excellent speech Mr. McWilliams recited "The Old Yellow Pumpkin," which certainly brought down the house.

The afternoon's meeting was then brought to a close. In the evening the meeting began by Miss Emma Brewer, of Crum Lynn, Pa., reciting a very beautiful piece entitled "America". Miss Brewer is noted for her fine elocution, and pleased her audience immensely last evening. She has been here all week, and has won many friends by her kind disposition.

Mrs. Helen S. Johnson, of Corry Erie Co, Pa., Ceres of Penn. State Grange, spoke on Womens Work in the Grange, holding it was not only a great social and educational factor, in womens life, but a great power for her to use in the upliftment of humanity to a "noble Manhood and Womanhood." That one will never have free men in the true sense of the word, until we have free womanhood, free motherhood. That it was the Son of life that the boys inherit the greater share of their characteristics from the mother and the girls from the father, as history proves, but few great men that have had great sons, but few great men but had brilliant or very sensible mothers, that women have a work to do, not only in the home but in business, social and political life, that man can not do; for God gave her the special qualifications to guard, oversee, and protect the children and homes of the nation, and to do this, she needs not only the highest education and culture, but the fullest freedom and power to embody the mother love into the laws of the land, until justice and equality shall prevail in the home and in the nation. She belives the Grange is seeking this great work.

Mr. D. B. McWilliams, delievered another recitation which was spoken in an excellent manner, the evening meeting was then brought to a close.

Hunting circus arrived this morning and pitched there large tent at the lower end of the grounds. The show given to-day was simply immense, and is said by some of the most honored people on the grounds that it is the cleanliest and best show ever given here. This word of testimony was given by one of the officers of the Grange.

Miss Emma L. Lewis, and Hon M. S. Bond of Danville Pa. Master of the Northumberland Pomona Grange, and Mr. and Mrs. Scott of Williamsport, Hon. Ellis Gundy and Hon. John Gundy of Lewisburg, a member of the board of the Mt. Gretna Grange. Mr. Frank Porter of Montgomery Co. Mr, Porter of Clinton Co., Hon. J. F. Ailman, Sec. of the State Grange, Hon. D. B. McWilliams, Chairman, of the finance com. of State Grange, Hon. David Lubin and his accomplished, daughter Miss Laura of Sacramento, California. Mrs. Helen Johnson and son, of Corry. Are all guests at the tent home, of Hon. Leonard Rhone.

The Pleasant Gap band and the Centre Hall Orchestra, will hold a grand concert on Friday evening. It will be composed of music and comic recitations, it promises to be a grand affair.

Miss Anna Roland of Media, Stephens P. Mengas, Mrs. Mattie Miller, Prof. Thos. B. Slamon, John Crome, William Boitz, George Smith Al. Boitz, Chas. Wetzel, Mr. Dinges, all of Turbotsville; and Mr. and Mrs. Allie Lein, Back are all the guests at the tent home of D. C. Keller.

Rev. D. J. Wolf and wife nee Jessie Durst of Westmoreland Co., are guest at the tent home of Alfred Durst.

One of the most successful picnics and exhibitions ever held by the grangers will come to a close this evening. During the past six years the picnic has been more or less interfered with by rain. But this year the weather was all that could be desired up until last evening. But the most detrimental element to the success of the picnic is the dust, The park was covered with the driest dustiest dust to a depth of three inches, and it proved a monster affliction to the pleasure of the crowd. However it did not lessen the attendance materially. But last night's storm settled the dust and converted it into one big mud puddle. It broke over the park about 8 o'clock. The wind blowed a hurricane and the rain fell in torrents. Lights went over, many of the fakirs' tents were blown over and the big Hunting circus tent collapsed while the performance was going on. For a while chaos reigned supreme. But the storm finally passed over and it was found the damage was not as great as at first expected. When the circus tent fell a panic ensued. The people rushed pell mell to get out, leaving hats and umbrellas behind. Many articles of value were reported lost. One of the lady performers, Madame Whitlock, was badly injured by falling from the trapeze.

Thursday witnessed the largest crowd of the week, the estimated number of people on the ground being placed at 10,000. Every train was crowded and hundreds drove in from all over the county. The speakers of the day were numerous, prominent among them being Hon. David Lubin, of California, who talked on "The Tariff as it Affects the Farmer." Others were Hon. Wm. L. Nesbit, of Northumberland, Pa.; Lecturer W. H. Hill, Mrs. Helen Johnston, Ceres of the State Grange; ex-Senator Gerard C. Brown, of York,; Drs. J. T. Rothrock and Leonard Pearson, W, H. Benninger and others.

A noticeable circumstance with all the speeches that have been made so far is an entire absence of party politics. Politics seemed to have been relegated from the meetings, and the speakers confine themselves principally to topics on agriculture and questions of special interest to the farmer. However, outside the auditorium there are many political discussions among the farmers. The unprecedently large crops form a subject to start with, and from that argument follows to the rise in the price of wheat, the open market for all kinds of farm produce, and then comes politics and prosperity. The administration of McKinley is given all the credit for the good times the farmer is now enjoying, and if another presidential election were to be held this fall the G. O. P. would poll a much larger farmer vote in this county than they ever did before.

We are sorry that space will not permit us to publish all the addresses in full, but such is impossible. Below we give a synopsis of the address by Hon. Wm. L. Nesbit, of Northumberland county. Mr. Nesbit began his remarks by a comparison of the agricultural conditions that prevailed in Pennsylvania in the days of his boyhood, fifty years ago, with the conditions that prevail to-day. The progress that has been made, has greatly lightened the manual labor of the farm, and shortened the hours of labor to the farm worker. But these changes which are simply the counterpart of the changes that have taken place in every other line of human endeavor have rendered old methods of agriculture absolute, and compelled the introduction of new methods some of which are very radical innovations. He counseled the young men and farmer's sons who were present to take account of the new conditions as an essential element in the successful practice of agriculture to-day.

Turning to the broader question of the duties of citizenship he counseled his audience, each one for himself, strong in the consciousness and responsibility of his individual manhood, to hold public duty above all party affiliations, and to so cast his vote, and the weight of his personal influence in every election, as to promote honest and economical administration, regardless of the appeals of selfish politicians. He said that the storm of obloquy and abuse, that has assailed the recent legislation, at least so far as the House is concerned, is in a great measure unjust.

We declare it to be a fact, that the last House of Representatives was the best House that has assembled at Harrisburg since the war, and that whenever any snaky or vicious legislation presented itself it was at once attacked and exposed. Much bad legislation was defeated, other bad measures got through, only, after a most determined opposition to them, and frequently by narrow margins. Substantial progress in the right direction has been made, and the outlook is certainly hopeful.

The eastern skies are surely brightening to the dawn of a better day.

There will be a concert held in the auditorium this evening and the following program has been prepared:

Grand march by band.
Selection.

Declamation.
Violin Solo.

A mother is always ready to sacrifice herself for her baby. But nature does not often call for any such sacrifice. On the contrary nature calls upon every mother to carefully protect herself and in that way to protect her baby.

During the critical period when a woman is looking forward to motherhood, the best protection she can give to the tender little life which is dependent upon her own, is to fortify herself with the health-bringing "Favorite Prescription" prepared by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., and sold by all dealers in medicines.

All the dangers of motherhood and most of its pains and discomforts are entirely banished by the use of this rare "Prescription." It gives elastic strength and true healthful vitality to the special organs and nerve-centres involved in motherhood. This healthful condition is transmitted to the baby both by the improved quality of the mother's secreted nourishment and by the child's increased constitutional vigor.

It is a perfect health protector to them both. No other medicine was ever devised by an educated, scientific, physician for the express purpose of bringing health and strength to the special feminine organs. No other preparation ever accomplished this purpose so scientifically and effectually.

A more particular description of its remarkable properties with a full account of some surprising cures of female difficulties is given in one chapter of Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," which is sent free paper-bound for the mere cost of mailing: 21 one-cent stamps; or, cloth-bound, for 31 stamps. Address the Doctor as above.

GRANGERS' ENCAMPMENT OVER.

Yesterday Marked the Closing of the Interesting Annual Outing.

Friday virtually ended the Grangers' Encampment at Grange Park. All that remained for to-day was the packing up and going home, and by noon to-day the ground was, practically, deserted.

The storm Thursday night struck the camp full force and did some damage, though nothing to interfere with the picnic. The rain which fell had the effect of laying the dust and the grounds were really in the best shape of any time during the week.

The first order Friday morning was the holding of a short business meeting of the Centre County Pomona Grange. The events of the week and affairs of the picnic committee reviewed, and it was found that the encampment was, in all respects, the best ever held. The receipts were unusually large and the attendance almost two-fold greater than that of last year, being about 40,000 for the week.

Resolutions favoring more liberal legislation for the farmer were adopted. The stiffening in prices of farm products came in for considerable comment and the administration got the credit.

The speakers were Drs. Frear and Armsby, of State College; Dr. Leonard Pearson, Hon. Leonard Rhone, Secretary J. T. Ailman, Mrs. Helen Johnston and others.

In the evening the Pleasant Gap band and the Centre Hall orchestra gave a musical entertainment in the auditorium as the closing exercises and the picnic virtually was at an end.

Roland Curtin Heard From.

Mr. Roland I. Curtin, son of Gen. John I. Curtin, of this city, who about one year ago graduated at the Annapolis Naval Academy and was transferred to the United States battleship Brooklyn, which was sent to the Queen of England's jubilee, writes his father and says on that occasion the English war vessels were anchored in five lines, each line five miles long, flying 165 pennants and manned by 28,578 officers and men. Each foreign country was represented by but one ship each, of which the Brooklyn was considered the best, and it and its officers and men received the greatest enthusiasm, the Russians giving them the greatest praise. He also says that it was the most powerful military and naval pageant the world has ever seen.

Roland I. Curtin comes of good, patriotic and fighting stock, and is considered one of the best and most advanced young naval officers in that branch of the service, and if he keeps up his naval record, and lives, the day is not far off when he will be walking the decks of a battleship in the uniform of an American officer.—Grit.

FROM THE STRIKE REGION

Absolute Quiet Prevailed In The District Yesterday.

TO-DAY MAY BE THE DECESIVE ONE

Attempt Will be Made to Resume Work at Lattimer and Also at Audenried. What the Troops Will Do.

CORONER'S INQUEST WEDNESDAY

BELLEFONTE, Pa., September 19.—Governor Hastings to-night announced that he had communicated with General J. P. Gobin several times to-day over the long distance telephone, and that everything was quite in the strike region. No outbreaks of the miners occurred and no extra duties were required of the troops. When asked when the militia would be withdrawn the governor replied that he could not tell.

HAZELTON, Pa., September 19.—Absolute quite prevailed in the entire strike district to-day. Vice President Maguire, of the Federation of Labor, left for Washington to attend the meeting of the executive council, which is to consider the situation, and George Chance, of the United Labor league went to Scranton for a similar meeting of labor men there. The only movements among the military were the practice rides of squadrons of the Governor's and City Troops and the afternoon dress parade.

To-morrow is looked forward to as a decisive day. An attempt will be made to resume at Lattimer where there are 1,300 men, and at Audenried. There are nearly 2,500 men at the latter place and they were the first to go out. Many of them want to return to work, but bands of women have prevented them during the past few days. To insure protection a squadron of cavalry and the entire Eighth regiment will go to the scene. The men at Coxe's Drifton mine are also to decide to-morrow upon staying out or continuing at work. All these places will be well guarded by troops and if the men are peacefully permitted to resume work it is thought that the backbone of the strike will be broken and no further violence will result. The coroner's inquest will begin on Wednesday afternoon, instead of Thursday as first intended.

SCRANTON, Pa., September 19.—Nearly 5,000 laboring men, the large majority being miners and mine laborers, attended a mass meeting in the open air at Nay Aug park this afternoon in response to a call from this city's Central Labor union to protest against the Lattimer killing. The policemen found nothing to do as the big gathering was quite and orderly. Among the eight speakers were Hugh O'Donnell, the Homestead labor leader, and George Chance, of Philadelphia, president of the Pennsylvania State Legislature Labor league. They denounced the Lattimer killing as wanton murder, brutal outrage and massacre, but suggested law as the present remedy and organization as the safeguard of the future.

Nothing in their utterances could be termed incendiary or approaching it. The company store system, the importation of cheap foreign labor and the encouragement of race prejudices, the two latter attributable to the owners, were given as the main causes of the outbreak. Resolutions of considerable lenght, blaming Sheriff Martin and his posse and criticizing General Gobin for alleged unwarranted interference with civil law, were adopted. A committee was appointed to solicit funds and the spirit of organization was engendered in the crowd. City Solicitor M. A. McGinley, Representative John R. Farr and James Moir, a common councilman, were among the local speakers. The meeting lasted three hours.

The deceased was born in Centre county 66 years and 11 months ago. He has been a resident of Altoona since 1882, and was, during the past six years, employed as janitor at the Second United Brethren church of which he was a member.

The Murder of Ritter.

The murder of Amos Ritter, near Watsontown, has created no end of excitement in the vicinity of that place and many are the surmises to the guilty parties. Two women who reside near where the murder occurred, are being watched and are strongly suspected of knowing considerable about the tragedy. As soon as enough evidence is gathered the women will be arrested.

"Two years ago I could see the danger which threatened our beloved country. I saw the opportunity for rescue. I thought I saw the man who could avert the danger. I thought I saw what was in the heart of the American people, and so I gave myself to the cause of William McKinley."—Hon. M. A. Hanna.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

A Jersey Shore Young Lady Dies Suddenly at Loganton.

Early Thursday morning District Attorney Hall received word from Loganton that a young lady had died there and that Aaron Bartges was accused of malpractice.

Coroner Hayes and the chief of police were notified and the trio were driven to Loganton by Liveryman Felmlee.

The young lady went to Logonton on Tuesday afternoon and on Wednesday forenoon she was well and amused herself at the organ during the quiet morning hours at the residence of Mr. Bartges, who is proprietor of a drug store.

She died about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and Doctors Houtz and Goodman were not called until about two hours later, and it was stated to a reporter that the people of Loganton believed that Bartges was trying to bring her back to life during that time. When Dr. Houtz, who had been summoned by Bartges, arrived he pronounced the girl dead.

A special from Jersey Shore states that her name was Miss Annie Hauser, and that her folks are engaged in the wholesale beer business; that she was highly respected in Jersey Shore and had many friends. She was about 20 years old and was fairly good looking. She was engaged to be married to Philip Ochler, proprietor of a Jersey Shore hotel, but the wedding was postponed on account of the death of that gentleman's father.

About 6:00 o'clock Wednesday evening Bartges started to drive to Jersey Shore to inform the girl's mother of her death.

The news spread over the town like wild-fire, which led Justice of the Peace Moore to believe that something was wrong, and he immediately impanneled a jury. The undertaker was about to remove the body to his establishment and put it in the ice box, but this was objected to by the doctor and citizens, who insisted on having the body remain where it was until the coroner arrived.—Mill Hall Times.

The sick man knocking at the door of health gets in if he knocks the right way, and stays out if he doesn,t. There are thousands of ways of getting sick but only one way to get well. Do whatever you will, if you do not put your digestion in good order, and make your blood rich and pure, you will not get well. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can bring perfect health. Constipation is a disease of the blood. A large part of the diseases are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be cured by eliminating them with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system into perfect order. It stimulates the appetite, excites a copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes assimilation. It searches out disease germs whatever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

A Probable Deficiency.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Commissioner Evans, of the Pension bureau, said to-day that he thought it would be necessary this year to ask Congress for a deficiency appropriation on account of pensions. He said:

"I estimate that the total payments for the year will not exceed $147,500,000 and the appropriation for the year is $141,263,880. If there should be an unexpected falling off in the revenues, the pension payments might be curtailed toward the end of the year, although I do think that is not at all likely."

The increased pension payments, he said, would be due chiefly to the fact that there are about 200,000 old claims pending which it is the intention of the bureau to adjudicate as rapidly as possible. The claims allowed probably would call for something like $5,000,000. There also had been a remarkable increase in the number of new pension applications and these would increase expenditures largely. In answer to a suggestion that there might be a deficit in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year, the commissioner said that he had examined into the matter somewhat and was of the opinion that there would be a sufficient increase in the revenues before the year was over to prevent a deficit.

YELLOW FEVER DISTRICT.

The Situation at Edwards and New Orleans Unchanged.

TWO DEATHS AT LATTER PLACE

At Biloxi There Are Now Twenty-Seven Cases of the Disease—Vicksburg is Healthy—Numerous Folks Leave.

DISINFECTION HAS COMMENCED

NEW ORLEANS, September 19.—The local fever situation has undergone little change since yesterday. About 6 o'clock to-night the record book in the board of health office showed a total of six new cases and one death. The official bulletin to be issued to-night will show two deaths that of the woman Santa Graffota, who died in the hospital last night, not having been included in the official bulletin although reported in the Associated Press dispatches.

VICKBURG, Miss., September 19.—The fever at Edwards shows but slight increase to-day and no deaths have occurred. Dr Purnell reported four new cases to-day. Disinfection has commenced and bedding is being burned when it cannot be disinfected.

The state board tried to prevent Father Prendergast, of this city, who has never had the fever, from going to Edwards, but he considered it his duty and the board gave way. The board has a report from Biloxi showing thirty-six cases to date, besides six suspects and twenty-seven cases of yellow fever now on hand. No deaths reported.

Vicksburg is thoroughly guarded and entirely healthy. It is estimated that perhaps 10 per cent of the population has left town.

Died at Philipsburg.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, wife of Thomas W. Thompson, died at Philipsburg on Friday Sept. 10. Deceased was the daughter of the late Vincent Holt, of Clearfield county, and a sister of D. W. Holt, Mrs. Oscar Adams and Mrs. A. S. Goodrich, of Philipsburg, and John Holt, of Morrisdale. Mr. Thompson who survives his wife is the son of the late Elijah Thompson, who died in Tyrone a number of years ago, and brother of Joseph, Porter and Benjamin Thompson. He was raised in this community. Locating in Philipsburg he and Miss Holt were married at that place, where they built a home and remained a number of years, but the business interests of Mr. Thompson have made it necessary for them to live in Philadelphia the past few years. Mrs. Thompson was in delicate health and had been spending the summer in Philipsburg. She was afflicted with heart trouble, but the immediate cause of her death was peritonitis. The funeral occured at Philipsburg on Sunday following her death. The friends of Mr. Thompson will regret to hear of the death of his companion, and will sympathize with him in his severe loss.

JOHN NUTTAL.

A Prominent Coal Operator Passes Away.

John Nuttal, for many years identified with the coal operations and other business interests around Philipsburg, Pa., died at his home in Nuttalburg, W. Va., Friday morning. He was born in Lancashire, Eng., and was 80 years, 5 months and 7 days old. He arrived in this country May 27th, 1849. The following sketch of his coal operations is from the Philipsburg Journal:

Being a practical coal miner as well as a calico printer, Mr. Nuttall became anxious to seek his fortune among the bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania, and removed to what is now Powelton, this county, in April, 1856, where he purchased of William Crabtree two hundred acres of land, the tract upon which the village of Powelton is situated. Previous to the purchase by Mr. Nuttal coal had been discovered and mined by a Mr. Colburn. The Tyrone and Clearfield road had also been surveyed, and in 1862 was completed to Powelton, in which year Mr. Nuttal made the first shipment of coal ever carried over the new road. In the original purchase of this tract Jonathan Crabtree was a partner with Mr. Nuttal, and in 1862 Robert Hare Powell, of Philadelphia, purchased of Mr. Crabtree his interest in the tract and mines. He also purchased 650 acres of coal land adjoining the original 200 acres, and Mr. Nuttal became superintendent of the whole 850 acres, receiving for his services a royalty on all the coal mined, and at the end of four years sold Mr. Powell his entire interest in the Powelton mines.

Mr. Nuttal having at the same time an interest in the Decatur Coal Co., not far distant from Philipsburg, became its superintendent. He also became interested in other coal operations in this neighborhood, and with his extensive mining interests in West Virginia, become very wealthy. Besides carrying on the mercantile business in this place, Mr. Nuttal was for years a director and stockholder in the Moshannon bank, merged not long since into the First National bank, of which he was a director and stockholder at the time of his death.

Besides his wife, three daughters and one son survive him, viz: Elizabeth Alice, wife of Geo. W. McGaffey, of Philipsburg who for years has been a partner with Mr. Nuttall; Susannah, wife of the late John Todd, also of Philipsburg Martha, wife of Jackson Taylor, of Nuttallburg, and Lawrence William, of the same place, who superintends his father's coal interests.

The funeral took place Sunday at Nuttelburg, W. Va.

"After the Bath," (G. Rousin.) A commanding figure of a magnificent woman contrasted with dainty and delicate lovliness of the more petite form.

Ten Dollars a Week for Eight.

It does not seem possible that the table for eight people can be provided for ten dollars a week. But Mrs. Rorer, the most famous cook in America, says it can be done. She has tried it and knows. She proves her case in The Ladies' Home Journal for October. She gives twenty-one menus covering a week's meals, and gives full, practical directions by which any woman can make as attractive meals as Mrs. Rorer explains, for this small sum of ten dollars.

A Fatal Wreck.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Sept., 17.—A disastrous wreck occurred on the Wisconsin Central railroad, six miles west of this city, at 4 o'clock this morning, resulting in the death of five people and the injury of several others. Two freight trains, through a mistake in orders, while going forty miles an hour, met on a curve, and not even giving the engineers and fireman time to jump, came together with terrible force. The dead: Engineer Warden, Engineer Smith, Fireman Smiley, Brakeman Miller, an unknown man riding between cars. It is thought others are buried in the wreck. Two brakeman were taken from the wreck and are seriously injured. Two passengers in the caboose are slightly injured. It is not known where the blame lies, but it is rumored that both trains were given the right of way.

Dig down to the cause of your sickness, if you want to get well and stay well. Most likely it's indigestion. The irritating poisons of fermenting, putrid food, left in the stomach by indigestion, cause headache, neuralgia, nervousness, dizziness, stomachache, nausea, irritability, and all the other well-known symptoms of indigestion.

They also cause many pains and disorders which are often laid to other causes and hence are not easily cured. But as soon as the poisons are removed, all these symptoms and disorders disappear, because there is nothing left to cause them. Nothing succeeds in this like Shaker Digestive Cordial, because it prevents the undigested food from fermenting in the stomach and helps the stomach to digest its food.

GOV. HASTINGS' MOVEMENTS.

The Chief Executive Leaves for Harrisburg.

The following dispatch from this place appeared in this morning's city papers :

"BELLEFONTE, Sept. 21.—Governor Hastings departed on the early train this morning for Harrisburg, and will spend the week at the Executive department. During the two days spent at home here the Governor was constantly besieged with callers, personal friends, who thus manifested their approbation of the stand the Governor has recently taken, though the latter avoided very adroitly the discussion of administration affairs, and the inference drawn by many is that there are still others whose heads will drop in due time. Gov. Hastings held frequent communications with Adjutant General Stewart and Gen. Gobin as to affairs in the Hazleton district, and last night stated that things looked brighter for a settlement of the strike and an early withdrawal of the troops.

Regarding the proposed trip south to Chickamaugua and Nashville, the excursion will undoubtedly be taken unless a greater spread of the yellow fever occurs between this and October 11, the date for the start. Gov. Hastings will this week issue his proclamation to the old soldiers of the state who were engaged in that memorable battle. In addition to Gov. Hastings' statement regarding the trip, W. L. Martin, secretary of the Tennessee Centennial Commission of Pennsylvania, states that there is hardly any doubt but that the excursion south will be made. That with the approaching cold weather, there is little danger of the fever getting as far north as Tennessee, at least as an epidemic.

REASONS FOR USING

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa.

1. Because it is absolutely pure.
2. Because it is not made by the so-called Dutch Process in which chemicals are used.
3. Because beans of the finest quality are used.
4. Because it is made by a method which preserves unimpaired the exquisite natural flavor and odor of the beans.
5. Because it is the most economical, costing less than one cent a cup.

STATE COLLEGE SANGUINE.

The Week's Training Has Developed Some Good Men, and the Team Will be Strong.

STATE COLLEGE, September 18

This afternoon the twenty-four candidates for the 'Varsity foot-ball team lined up for their first preliminary skirmish, and the showing made was highly creditable to the week's training at Hecla Park, and warrants the prediction that State this year will have on the girdiron one of her old-time teams, such as she sent out in '93, '94 and '95, when few games were lost. The men who are here now and in training are Andrews, Bechtel, Beers, Clapper, Curtin, Mechesney, Thomas, Brandt, Diehl, Hayes, Heckel, Murray, Glassmire, Ruble, and Scholl, all old students, who played either on the first or second teams last year, and Randolph, Kewer, Eshler, Cartwright, Barnes, Walker and the two Millers, new men, who come to State for the first time this year, but all of whom have good reputations as kickers.

The inital game of the season will be next Saturday with Gettysburg College, and, though State feels confident of winning from the start, the game is anticipated with more interest, as it will serve to tell how the team will show up in actual play. And this is especially of interest, inasmuch as the next game will be with the strong Lafayette team on October 2. Though the team has not been selected, there is no uncertainly about the fact that it will be much changed from last year. The line will be made up mostly of new men, and there will be one or two back of the line.

As it looks now, Murray, the 210 pounder, will be put at centre; Scholl and Randolph, both of whom weigh not less than 190 pounds, have the lead for guards; the tackles will likely be Kewer and Eshler, both new men, but old players in the positions, and both of whom have nearly 200 pounds of flesh and bone to sustain them. So far the line will be one of the heaviest of any college team in existence. The ends will be the lightest and possibly played by Heckel and Mechesney, as both men are active and good runners, and in the past have held their positions very creditably. Back of the line will possibly be Barnes, at quarter. Barnes is a new man, but his reputation as a quarter-back is known among all foot ball players. Curtin, captain of the team, and Cartwright, who played half while at college in '93 as a soph, and who is back this year, will possibly be put at these places, and for a full-back Walker and Hayes have the pull. Both of the above have played the position, and are regarded as fairly strong.

The above would compose a team heavier by twenty pounds on the average than any team State has ever sent out, the weight being not below 180 pounds to the man. Dr. Newton, who has never been much of an enthusiast on foot-ball at State, is jubilant over the outlook this season, and feels quite confident that it will be a year of successive victories. Out of the ten games scheduled for the season there is a prevailing belief that State will win eight of them, and succeed in holding the other teams—Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania—down to the lowest score ever made against them.

Aside from the foot-ball men, State's track team is all here, and will go into practice immediately, with the expectation of holding a meet some time in the latter part of October.

A BRANT HOUSE ECHO.

The Proprietor of the Well Known Hostlery Ventures an Opinion.

The popular host of the Brandt House at the corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets. Complaining of his back one day to Mr. M. Cunningham, he of local and foreign pavement fame, "Mine Host" was advised to try the old Quaker remedy. He took the contractors advice and procured the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Green's Pharmacy. This is what he has to say about it, "My kidneys have been faulty for years. I have read a great deal about how the organs work, what is good for them and what is bad for them. Experience is a great teacher and I have had my share. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box. It helped me so much that I got a second and I am still using them. It is rather a difficult job to cure a man whose blood is saturated with uric acid, who has rheumatism and urinary disorder due to weak kidneys and bladder and who has become a chronic victim. Still in spite of it all, Doan's Kidney Pills have helped me. I am much better in every way and it is quite possible if I persist in the treatment as I intend doing I may be eventually cured. If I continue to progress as I have in the past that will be the ultime end. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney trouble."

Look Out for Him.

A slick swindler has been "doing" some of the farmers in different sections of the state. He calls at the farmer's house and salutes the lady about in this way: "Good morning madam, I have just met your husband and purchased a calf from him. He could not change this $20 bill and he told me to call at the house and get $15 change." The good woman supposing it to be all right gives him the requisite change and he departed saying he will call in a day or two. When the husband comes in and is told of the transaction, he concluded there is some mistake; but as he has the $20 bill he concluded he is not out much. But when he undertakes to pass the bill he discovers it to be a rank counterfiet and then knows it is not all right.

THE MINERS ARE QUIET.

This Because a Great Number of Them Are Now at Work.

GOOD WAY TO STOP A STRIKE

At Some Places There Was Trouble, But Nothing to Amount to Anything. Women Were the Most Vicious.

RESULT OF CORONER'S INQUEST

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 20.—Unless unforseen developments occur the anthracite coal strike in this region is ended. To-day 1,200 men, half of the full complement, returned to work at the Honey Brook collieries of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre company, as did 300 of the 1,300 at Pardee's Lattimer mines, while the Cranberry, Crystal Ridge and Harwood collieries of the same company, and the collieries in the Drifton district, remained at work. The latter were to have settled the question of strike to-day, but, at the request of the operators, held off until next Thursday. The Hazel mines of the Lehigh Valley company are to-night considering the question of returning in the morning and will probably do so. Nearly 5,000 strikers have returned or will do so tomorrow, and a little less than that number are still out, with indications in favor of their joining the workers.

The only incidents of to-day were small outbreaks at Lattimer and Eckley, both of which were quickly subdued and the serving of warrants of arrest upon Sheriff Martin and a number of his deputies. At Lattimer a band of women attempted to drive out 300 Italians who returned to work. They were armed with clubs and stones and moved on the engine house and the company stores. The raid looked forbidding for a time and was not ended until three companies of the 13th Regiment, with fixed bayonets, had pressed back and dispersed the crowds. A number of Butler Valley miners who wanted to return to work at Lattimer were driven back by a body of armed strikers who met them as they came over the mountain, a mile or more from the camp.

The disturbance at Eckley was an attempt by strikers to intimidate the men who wanted to work, and it, too, was quieted down by the troops without violence. The break of the strike is practically a victory for the operators, as only in one or two instances have the demands of the men been granted, although several companies have promised to consider the grievances.

The warrants for the arrest of Sheriff Martin and his deputies were issued to-day by Judges Lynch and Bennett at Wilkesbarre. They were served here to-night and no resistance was made. The writs contain 78 names, including the sheriff, and the latter has agreed to deliver all the deputies for a hearing tomorrow. A company of the Ninth regiment will escort them to Wilkesbarre. General Gobin permitted the service of the writs because he thinks the civil authorities are now able to handle the situation. The gradual withdrawal of the troops will be considered to-morrow.

The information upon the strength of which the warrants were issued is as follows :

"State of Pennsylvania : The information of Isaac G. Eckert, of the city of Wilkesbarre, county of Luzerne, and state of Pennsylvania, taken upon his oath before Hons. L. H. Bennett and John Lynch, judges of the court of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery of the county of Luzerne and state of Pennsylvania, the 20th day of September, A. D., 1897. The said Isaac G. Eckert saith that on or about the 10th day of September, A. D. 1897, James Martin and 78 others did then and there at the village of Lattimer, Luzerne county, state of Pennsylvania, and within the jurisdiction of this court, feloniously, wilfully and of their malice aforethought kill and murder 24 men."

The warrant of the court reads :

We command you, Frank L. McKee, coroner of Luzerne county, forthwith to take the said James Martin, et al., and bring them before the said Honorables John Lynch and L. H. Bennett, judges of the court of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, and ex officio justices of the peace, to answer the said charges and further to be dealt with according to law.

Witness the said John Lynch and L. H. Bennett, judges, the 20th day of September, A. D. 1897.

JOHN LYNCH,
L. H. BENNETT.

Adjutant General Stewart shipped from Harrisburg 1,000 pairs of blankets to-day to Hazleton for the Third brigade. The blankets were procured from the United States stores in the Schuylkill arsenal. They will be returned to the State arsenal at the close of the tour of duty of the troops.

Our Armenian Guests.

Rev. H. S. Jenanyan, Principal of the Apostolic Institute in Armenia, was in the town Sunday with his cousin, Miss Semma Jenanyan, they gave six talks to large congregations, on the subject of "Armenian faith, sufferings and need."

Mr. Jenanyan spoke in the morning at the Presbyterian church, then gave a brief talk in the Sunday school, in the afternoon delivered a lecture to a large crowd at the Court house, and in the evening spoke to a union meeting at Lemont. He is a forcible speaker and thoroughly acquainted with the situation.

Miss Jenanyan, a young maiden, spoke in the morning at the Evangelical Lutheran church, afternoon briefly at the Court house and evening at M. E. church. She was attired in Armenian costume—silk and velvet with gold embroidery. She is a pathetic speaker, and melted the hearts of her hearers. It was very touching to hear how her own family was afflicted, four members being killed by the Turks, in the late massacre.

These missionaries represent the permanent relief wore among Armenian widows and orphans. They do not take the contributions themselves, but they are sent, through the pastors, to the treasurer in New York city. According to the estimate each $10.00 feeds one destitute widow or orphan one year. No doubt the generous contributions given by our citizens will save scores of the unfortunate famishing ones. For the satisfaction of the doners in Bellefonte later reports will be printed, of how much given and to which city in Armenia the money is sent.

A Case of Trespass.

The case of trespass brought in this county, and transferred to the United States Circuit court, which was tried last week and Monday of this week at Williamsport, in which Mr. Edward C. Perkins and others were plaintiffs and Messrs. Jacob Tome, George Seligman, William Resides, William F. Pownall and others were defendants, resulted in a verdict of $3,200 in favor of the plaintiffs, whose attorneys were ex-Judge Furst of this place and Lawyer Ball of Lock Haven. The land in dispute is located on Eddy Lick run, this county, and heretofore has been subject to much litigation, which caused much interest to be taken in the termination of the suit. The verdict was for prop and other timber taken from the land by the defendants.

A Beautiful Complexion.

If you are suffering from poverty of blood, blood disorders, scrofula, boils, carbuncles, eruptions, pimples, and have a bad complexion, Dr. John W. Bull's Pills are the best constitutional remedy that can be employed. They are a perfect purifier and enricher of the blood; a tonic of supreme qualities. They will fortify the system, making it impenetrable to disease, and give glow to the cheeks and color to the complexion. Dr. Bull's Pills (60 in a box) cost but 25 cents; trial box, 10 cents, at all dealers, or by mail. A. C. Meyer & Co., Baltimore, Md. Some dealer may try to substitute some ordinary, cathartic pills; don't be deceived; ask for Dr. John W. Bull's Pills, the only genuine, and take no other.

Knives in a Birthday Festivity.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Sept. 19.—A birthday anniversary party was being celebrated, with whisky accompaniments, at the home of Michael Cutsko, in Mount Carmel, early Sunday morning, when a general row ensued. Some one wielded a knife with murderous effect, three persons being cut so badly that they will scarcely recover.

George Herring was stabbed eleven times in the face and body, while John Romaik received seven wounds, one causing the loss of four fingers and another severing an artery near the liver. John Kutnuf was stabbed in the back and body. Four other men were slightly cut.

John Cutsko, George Duran and Michael Bell are under arrest to await the result of the wounds upon those injured worst.

Bradfield's Female Regulator.

It is a combination of remedial agents which have been used with the greatest success for more than 25 years, and known to act specifically with and on the organs of Menstruation, and recommended for such complaints only. It never fails to give relief and restore the health of the suffering woman. It should be taken by the girl just budding into womanhood when Menstruation is Scant, Suppressed, Irregular or Painful, and all delicate women should use it, as its tonic properties have a wonderful influence in toning up and strengthening the system by driving through the proper channels all impurities.

"A daughter of one of my customers missed menstruation from exposure and cold, and on arriving at puberty her health was completely wrecked, until she was twenty-four years of age, when upon my recommendation, she used one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator, completely restoring her to health."

The Indiana Lynchings.

According to the latest statistics available, there were in this country during the year, 7,900 murders and homicides, 113 legal executions and 160 lynchings. Every year for ten years the lynchings in the United States have exceeded the legal executions. It is a horrible fact to face, but the statistics are before us.

We preach against other countries, and yet we find that not one murderer in fifty is punished according to his deserts, and that for every two persons hanged legally nearly three are murdered illegally in the name of justice.

No more awful illustration of this modern tendency to take the law out of the hands of the legal authorities could be found than in the case reported from Indiana this morning. Five men accused of burglary were lynched in Indiana. At the very worst, this crime could not have been legally punished by death, and the work of the mob will stand out not only as murder, but as murder without cause.

It is a most deplorable spectacle for these last days of the nineteenth century.—Baltimore American.

Hawaii and the Flag.

When will the world be done with the nonsence about the Hawaiian Islands? One of ex-Queen Liliuokalani's ridiculous retainers develops the story that Princess Kaiulani is to be accepted as the head of a modified monarchy in the event of the failure of the plan of annexation to the United States. Whether the Senate ratifies the annexation treaty or not there is surely going to be enough honor and courage in the government of the United States, even with Mark Hanna and William McKinley at the head, to prevent the Hawaiian Islands from relapsing into semi-barbarism. If the annexation treaty fails in the Senate because there is a gouge game in it for the benefit of private individuals, this country will still not be prevented from spreading the protection of the American flag over a neighboring infant republic.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Our nation needs protection. This is the work of the statesmen and diplomatists. Our law and institutions needs protection. This is the work of our representatives, executives and judges. Each household needs protection. This is the work of the parents or gaurdian. Each person needs protection. Protection from storm and sun, heat and cold, each person must provide for himself. Protection from disease is the work of the wise doctor. Prevention is better than cure. Formation than reformation.

Pe-ru-na is a natural protection to the household from the ills of life. It protects as well as cures. It is the woman's friend in all of her physiological troubles. Jos. Kirchensteiner, 87 Croton street, Cleveland, Ohio. writes:

"We have used Pe-ru-na for eight years as our family medicine. During the whole of that time we have not had to employ a physician. Our family consists of seven, and we always use it for the thousand and one ailments to which mankind is liable. We have used it in cases of scarlet fever, diptheria and measles. Whenever one of the family feels in the least ill, mother always says: 'Take Pe-ru-na and you will be well'; or if we do not happen to have any: We will have to get more Pe-ru-na:"

JUMPED FROM A TRAIN.

A Lieutenant Fails In an Attempt at Suicide.

Early Tuesday morning, shortly after Erie mail east left Williamsport, a man whose name was afterwards learned to be Lieutenant R. G. Hill, of Columbus, O., entered the water closet in one of the Pullman sleepers. When the train arrived at Milton the man had not made his appearance. The door was forced open, when a knife with a bloody blade was found on the floor. The walls and the floor were also covered with blood spots. The window was open and a man's vest was found hanging on the hook. A note was taken from one of the pockets which gave the man's name and place of residence. It also stated that he intended committing suicide for the reason that he had broken a pledge made to his wife to stop drinking.

The window being open it was at once surmised that the man had jumped out, and as the train was running at great speed the conclusion was arrived at that he had been killed. A search was made for the man but he could not be found.

Hill, however, was not killed when he jumped out of the window. He received a bad shaking up from his tumble, and was badly bruised about the face and head. Before jumping out of the window he had cut the veins in his wrist. He bound the incisions with a handkerchief and then walked to the tower at Muncy. Here he informed the operator of his name and asked that he be shown a hotel. He was directed to a hotel in that place, and shortly after Dr. A. P. Howe, who had heard of the man's injuries, made his appearance. Hill refused the physician's services. When asked if he had any explanation to make about his attempt at suicide he replied that he had not, and with an oath added that too much had already been said. Later on he was taken to the Williamsport hospital. Lieutenant Hill was on his way to Washington when he jumped from the train.

Thanked by Mr. Bryan.

NEW YORK, Sept, 17,—William J. Bryan in a letter published in the Mail and Express to-day, refers as follows to a recent editorial in that paper regarding Mr. Bryan's work in the Kansas railroad disaster:

"I beg to thank you for your generous words, but am afraid your praise outruns the merit of my work on that occasion. I did no more than the others who escaped uninjured, and none of us did more than could have been expected from any person under like circumstances. Some of the wounded ones were suffering intensely, and no one could have refused any assistance which could possibly be rendered. It is often the lot of public men to be criticised when they do not deserve it, and I suppose the unmerited commendation which they sometimes receive is necessary to form a just average. However, I appreciate the charity which you, as a political opponent, have shown.

Very truly, yours,
WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

YELLOW FEVER SCARE.

A New Orleans Physicaian Discovers Nine New Cases.

SENT THE ANNOUNCEMENT BY MAIL

Then Followed It by a Special Messenger and the Board of Health Calls the Latter Irregularity.

NO MORE DEATHS REPORTED

NEW ORLEANS, September 21.—The largest number of cases reported on any day since yellow fever first made its appearance in New Orleans two weeks ago, was recorded on the books of the board of health to-day. There were eighteen cases in all.

The most sensational incident of the day was the announcement from Dr. Joseph Holt, to the board of health that he had discovered nine cases among his practice, the first of which had come under his observation on Friday. Dr. Holt wrote a letter to President Oliphant and entrusted it to the mail and his letter reached the board of health this morning. Fearing that the letter might not reach its destination in time, Dr. Holt sent a special messenger to the residence of Dr. Oliphant at midnight last night, giving this information. Dr. Holt was severely criticised for this irregular way to make known his cases. Upon the receipt of the letter, the machinery of the board was set in motion and inspectors were sent to the various houses where Dr. Holt reported sickness in the district. The places were all disinfected and guards were placed in front of them, but the board said it had very little hope of the effectiveness of these measures, since all those who desired were given an opportunity to escape from the infected houses. One of the houses, where there are four of the patients, is a fashionable boarding house. Those living in the house, of whom there were quite a number, knew of the existence of fever early Saturday morning, and therefore got out as fast as possible. Some of them moved their baggage on Saturday and others on Sunday, while it is said some of the boarders took a train and went to Atlanta. The board decided to summon Dr, Holt to appear before them and explain to-morrow his alleged negligence. The result of the meeting to-morrow will decide whether or not there shall be a prosecution of Dr. Holt in the courts.

The brightest feature of the day was that there were no deaths. To-night most of the patients in the city were reported as doing well.

At the session this afternoon the board of health decided to send an appeal to Governor Foster, asking him to supply the board with 25,000 from the surplus fund of the state to assist the board in prosecuting its fight against the fever.

The governor was also asked to issue orders for tents and other camp supplies to be used at the camp of detention. Today after a conference of the health and city authorities, the Oakland driving park was selected as the site for the camp of detention. It is situated in the rear of the city and was tendered to the officials by the Crescent City Jockey Club. A large force of men were immediately put to work and it is expected that by to-morrow the camp will be ready to receive 200 or 300 people from the Italian quarter,

To-day J. H. Whyte, a newspaper correspondent, was taken ill at Fontainbleau and was removed to an isolated point, where the hospital is located, one mile from Fontainbleau. There were no new cases at Ocean Springs up to evening and several of the old patients were discharged.

"The August advance in prices for more than 100 staple raw and manufactured articles, products, live stock, etc,. as reported by Bradstreet's amount to 3.4 per cent., following a 3.1 per cent advance in July. During the first six months of the calendar year prices referred to fell away about 2.6 per cent. Bradstreet's prices index number amounted to 77,904 on September 1, against 75,044 on August 1, 72,828 on June 1, and 75,044 on July 1, 1897, and has not been exceeded since October 1, 1895, at the end of the little 'boom' in that year, when the index number was 79,306, against 80,700 on January 1, 1895. There are 173 business failures reported throughtout the United States this week, againt 198 last week, 308 in the week one year ago, 213 two years ago, 223 three years ago, and as compared with 300 in the like week of September, 1893. Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and Montreal show a falling off from last week, but are still very large, aggregating 5,461,506 bushels. With the exception of last week, when the total exports aggregated 6,268,247 bushels, they are largest for any week this year, and compare with exports in the like week a year ago of 3,799,141. in 1895 of 1,810,000, in 1894 2,789,000, and in 1893 of 5,357,000 bushels. Corn exports are the largest for any week since last spring, aggregating 4,943,348 bushels, against 2,656,000 bushels last year."—From Bradstreet's September 11th.

The calamity shriekers of last year have not told the farmers yet how it is that wool and wheat have advanced 50 per cent. in price since their shrieks of last year while silver has meantime industriously fallen 25 per cent.

Grapes and Appendicitis.

Complaint is made here and there throughout the country that the demand for grapes is perceptibly diminishing, and this falling off in their use is credited largely to the amount of stuff written and published within the past few years about grapes as a producer of the affliction called appendicitis. Grapes are no more harmful to people now than they were before people knew how either to spell or pronounce this appendicitis. On the contrary, they are just as healthful as they ever were—and they always were healthful. People can make gluttons of themselves in eating grapes, but they can do the same with all other fruits, food and drink. Undoubtedly many people have been led to believe that the eating of grapes and berries generally has become more dangerous of late years than it was formerly. A very appropriate comment was made a few years ago on this subject by a sarcastic philosopher, who had grown weary of the seed and appendicitis talk. In substance, he said: How fortunate it is that people have now learned how dangerous these seeds are. But what a pity it is that the poor little birds have no new scientific information on this subject and go on taking these seeds into their internal system just the same as ever!" That philosopher properly sized up the situation. There is no impending danger for people either in eating or drinking if they but seek to be as sensible as the birds, which do not trouble themselves about appendicitis, bacteria, microbes, etc., but eat a satisfying quantity of this thing and that and go along about their business. Eat grapes if you like them, but don't attempt to eat all the markets afford.—Commercial Gazette.

Luetgert Thrown 20 Feet.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—It came to light today that Luetgert, the alleged wife murderer, indulged in a fight last Wednesday afternoon with William Young, a prisoner confined in the same tier on the charge of robbery. The ex-sausage manufacturer's lameness is not due to rheumatism, as was given out by himself and his guards, but the result of Young's hurling him backwards against the pavement of the jail corridor to save himself from Luetgert's big fists. The affair started in a friendly scuffle, but when Luetgert saw that his opponent was getting the better of him he lost his temper and began "rushing" his man. Young, however, who is quick and muscular, caught his opponent around the waist and literally hurled him backwards almost 20 feet against the tile pavement and a steel door. Luetgert had to be helped to his feet and almost carried to his cell. The jail physician says the fall wrenched one of the ligaments of the thigh and it may be weeks before he fully recovers.

The Game at Hecla.

The manager of the Howard base ball club desires us to make the explanation that the game between his club and Mackeyville at Hecla park, Saturday, was called in the first half of the eighth inning to permit the bicycle races to take place. The score reverted to the seventh inning, when it stood 9 to 9.

The Howard team is strictly an amateur club, and they challenge any amateur nine in Clinton and Centre counties to play a game on neutral grounds. Professional players are debarred. Letters can be sent to J. S. Holter, manager Howard base ball club.

—In the winter of 1872 corn would not bring 12c a bushel in many parts of the West, and coal was $11 a ton. In consequence a good deal of corn was burned for fuel. Now coal in the same localities can be bought for about one-half the price of twenty-five years ago, while corn is worth rather more. It was never real economy to burn corn, the time has gone by, probably never to return.

—Mrs. Amanda, wife of John Scruders, died at the State hospital at Warren Pa., last Saturday morning, where she had been taken in July last for treatment. Her remains were brought to the family home in Tyrone Sunday.

The deceased was a native of Centre county and was about 42 years old. She is survived by her husband and two children, Stella, aged 13 years, and Clyde, aged 9. WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20th, 1897.

President McKinley has not complained because he failed to get any rest while away from Washington, on his recent vacation, but he has arranged for another little trip which he thinks will give him some rest. He is going to the Berkshire hills of Massachusetts, where himself and Mrs. McKinley will be guests at the residence of an old friend. It is not probable that President McKinley has done a harder week's work since he was inaugurated than he has just completed, but he has got all the routine work up to date again now, and as there are no important matters pressing, he feels free to go away again and try to get himself braced up a little for the ardous duties of the winter. He was surprised to find so many office seekers awaiting him when he returned, but he saw as many of them as he possibly could and made a number of appointments, which, of course, also made a much larger number of disappointments. He is very much interested in the greater New York campaign, and willingly listened to those who had information to impart concerningit, but he says only enough to draw them out. He has expressed no opinion on the subject.

It was definitely settled at a conference between the President and Consul General Lee that the latter should return to Cuba at the expiration of his leave of absence, or earlier if circumstances should make his presence there necessary. This indicates that General Lee will continue as Consul General to Cuba for some time yet. His leave of absence expires early in October.

Pension Commissioner Evans, Ex-Commissioner ("Corporal") Tanner, and General Baird, accompanied the Washington members of the Union Veteran Legion, who left this afternoon on a special train for Columbus, Ohio, where the 12th National Encampment of the Legion will be held this week.

Under the new policy of the Pension Bureau, to give the papers of applicants for original pension preference, Commissioner Evans estimates that two hundred thousand applications, which have been hung up under the democratic policy will be disposed of during the present fiscal year.

Secretary Alger is determined to find out as much as possible about the condition of things in the Klondyke region, in order to be able to carry out his project of sending food into that region, if it becomes necessary to prevent suffering among the numerous Americans who have gone there, at his own expense but in the name of the government of the United States. As a step in that direction, he has been conferring with Mr. Joseph Ladue, of Dawson City, a gentleman lately from the Klondyke and who has mining interests there. Arrangements have been completed for sending a company of U. S. soldiers to St. Michael, Alaska, for the purpose of maintaining order and protecting property at that point.

The free trade press regards it, or tries to make it appear to the public that it so regards the matter, that the compelling of foreign manufacturers, who have established a market in this country for their wares, to start factories over here or lose their American trade, is a misfortune, but it does not so appear to sensible people, whether they are republicans or not. It is clear enough that every establishment employing labor started and maintained in the United States must necessarily add to the prosperity of our people, and while increased prosperity for the people may be a misfortune for the professional calamity howlers among the democratic and populist politicians, it will certainly not be so regarded by those who get additional work and become sharers in the increased prosperity. If everything consumed or used in the United States could be made by our own citizens, it would be one of the very best things that could happen to the country. It was largely because we bought so much stuff of foreign production brought in under the low rates of the democratic tariff, that we had such a long period of business and industrian depression. These are facts that should be constantly kept in mind by the people of the United States.

Bull's Baby Syrup, a most efficacious, yet harmless medicine for all baby disorders. "I have used Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup for eight years. It has given perfect satisfaction every time. New Pension Ruling.

A new pension ruling that the veterans are kicking on, and which will effect thousands, has been in force for several days in the pension bureau, to the effect that "all new disability cases where a pensioner is now receiving a pension for one disability and wants another, must be referred to a special field examiner to corroborate the evidence of the applicant, and to look up the credibility of his comrades or neighbors who have acted as witnesses."

Chinese Like Our Goods.

WASHINGTON, September 19. — The United States consul at Amoy, China, says, in a recent dispatch to the state department that "the Chinese people prefer American cotton fabrics, spinnings, flour, oils, canned goods and meats, and even buy them at higher prices than other importations can be had for." He also says: "There is a more amicable feeling existing between the natives and foreigners at Amoy and in the surrounding country than probably exists in any other port in China." He thinks the rapid increase of trade between the United States and this port of China should command the attention of American merchants and of the United States government.

That Arbitration Treaty.

LONDON, September 20.—The Times this morning says: "The statement of the the American press that the state department at Washington and the British ambassador have received instructions to reopen negotiations for a general treaty of arbitration is at least premature.

"It is not improbable that the negotiations, which have never been broken off, may be renewed next month when Sir Julian Pauncefote returns to his post; but it is difficult to see how a treaty of any practical value can be concluded so long as the senate maintains the hostile and obstructive attitude it displayed when it last discussed the question.',

Baby Was Lying on a Snake.

A telegram from Williamsport says: A 3 year-old child of Mrs. James Cross, who resides in the Beech Creek region, was bitten by a copperhead snake Sunday while in its crib. The child began crying and told its mother that its back was cold. The mother investigated and found that the child was lying on a snake that had coiled up in the bottom of the crib. The snake had bitten the baby on the neck, but home-made remedies prevented the poison spreading. The snake measured over six feet in length.

I AM confident that the doctrines of the Chicago platform will not much longer be masqueraded as Democratic principles. Free silver is retreating before the returning tide of prosperity. It can only live on "hard times." It is beginning to pant for breath already, under the pressure of the advance in wheat and the re-opening of the mills, mines, and factories. The free silver campaign slogan of last fall, "as silver falls wheat falls; as silver advances wheat advances," is no longer heard, and the people are fast learning that it is the law of supply and demand, and not the price of silver that controls the prices of the farmers' products and the laboring man's wages.

Free, unlimited, and independent coinage of silver is doomed, and no strong political party of the present, or future, will e[illegible] out its[illegible] to death by declaring for it [illegible] nvention.—Chas. T. O'Ferr[illegible] Democratic Governor, Virginia, Sept. 11, 1897.

"Blessed is the country whose soldiers fight for it and are willing to give the best they have, the best that any man has, their own lives to preserve it, because they love it. Such an army the United States has always commanded in all her history.'—President McKinley at Buffalo.

REFUSES TO CONCUR.

Hastings Objects to Recommendations of the Pardon Board.

IT RELATES TO ELECTION OFFICERS

Sent Up for Six Months and Ordered to Be Disfranchised for Four Years—Sentence Served, But Want Other Removed.

TO THE LATTER THERE IS OBJECTION

HARRSBURG, September 17.—Governor Hastings has refused to concur in the recommendation of the pardon board in the cases of Richard Hughes, James Cahill and Charles McConnell, of Philadelphia. The applicants pleaded guilty November 11, 1896, to an indictment charging them with making false returns as election officers of the Fourth ward at the general election held November 5, 1895, and were sentenced to six months each in prison and deprived of the right of suffrage for four years. Although the recommendation for absolute pardon was made June 30 last, the reasons did not reach the executive until to-day. The applicants served the full term of imprisonment and were discharged some time ago. The application was to relieve them from the sentence that they and each be deprived of the right of suffrage for the term of four years.

The reasons assigned for granting the pardon are that the applicants served their term of imprisonment and have since abstained from taking part in political matters; that in their endeavors to lead honest and law abiding lives they are greatly embarrassed by their disfranchisement; that the punishment is greater and heavier than they can bear; that the sentence imposed was a severe one, especially the disfranchising clause; that the offense to which they pleaded guilty was committed under extraordinary circumstances.

Governor Hastings, in refusing pardon, says:

"In my judgment these reasons are satisfactory. The offense to which the applicants entered the plea of guilty was a glaring and deliberate attempt by Hughes as judge of the election, and Cahill and McConnell as inspectors to corrupt the ballot in the district where they had sworn to honestly and faithfully execute the law. I know of no higher duty of the citizen than to see to it that suffrage shall always be guarded, protected and secured against venality and fraud. The election officer who receives the ballots of his fellow citizens entitled to vote and places them in the ballot box, only to await the opportunity when he may deliberately destroy their effect, instead of sending forward the honest return so that each citizen may exercise his part of sovereignty in common with his fellow citizen, renders null and void a sacred right and is the common enemy of state and country.

The Goddess Grins.

There is peace in Warrensburg, Mo., at last, and the Goddess of Liberty on the staff of the new Court-house there show a smile sweet as the tender eye-dawn of aurorean love. The ball on the staff which the goddess amuses herself by holding used to be a rich golden color," to the delight of the Republicans and the sorrow and wrath of the Democrats. The Republicans fleered and jeered until the Democrats couldn't stand it any longer. The members of the County Court "are all Democrats, and secret orders were given to supplant the golden ball with one of silver." The orders were obeyed. The unhallowed badge of the money power was removed, and now the end of the staff glistens with a ball of silver. The goddess grins radiantly. The Warrensburg Democrats sleep in peace, knowing that the people's metal is enthroned on the new Court-house.

Mysterious Deaths of Cattle.

Last spring a number of farmers of Penns valley banded together and drove their young cattle to the mountains, south of the valley, for the summer, the cattle to be tended and salted by a man engaged for the purpose. Little attention was paid by the farmers to their stock until lately, and then it was discovered that out of sixty head taken out all were dead but twenty-two. The woods is strewn with the carcasses of the dead beasts. Some of them have the appearance of having been killed by a mysterious wild beast, while others bear no mark at all The cattle yet remaining alive have been brought home, looking gaunt as spectres, and an investigation is being made to ascertain, if possible, the cause of the wholesale slaughter of the stock. It is more than likely that state aid may be called for.

Dropsy and Heart Disease

A great cure and a great testimony. "For ten years I suffered greatly from Heart Disease, Fluttering of the Heart and Smothering Spells, made my life a torment. I was confined to my bed. Dropsy set in. My physician told me to prepare for the worst. I tried Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart—One dose gave great relief, one bottle cured the Dropsy and my heart."—Mrs. James Adams, Syracuse, N. Y.—1.

MARLBOROUGH HEIR BORN.

Consuelo, the American Duchess, Gives Birth to a Son.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, gave birth to a son at 3:00 o'clock yesterday morning, at Spencer house, the London residence of the young couple. Both mother and son are doing well, according to the latest reports from the attending physician.

Charles Richard John Spencer-Churchill, ninth duke of Marlborough, was born November 13, 1871, and succeeded to the title on the death of his father in 1892. The present duke was married to Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, daughter of William K. Vanderbilt, on November 6, 1895, when she was 18 years of age. The mother of the young duchess, Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, sailed from New York on Sept. 2, to be present at the event.

The wedding of the young duke and Miss Vanderbilt, in St. Thomas' church, in New York, is remembered as one of the most interesting in the social annals of New York. The wedding followed a long courtship, which began in Europe in the winter of 1894, and which was brought to a successful conclusion in the summer of 1895 at Newport.

The Duchess of Marlborough is the eldest child of William K. Vanderbilt, who settled a dowry of $10,000,000 upon her on her marriage. By the birth of this heir the succession of the Dukedom of Marlborough is assured to the present family in possession. By special grant of the first Duke of Marlborough, who died without sons, the dukedom was to pass, not to the senior male relative of the last holder of the title, but to the next relative in point of seniority and nearness, regardless of sex. Had the new heir not been born, Cornelia, Lady Winborne, elder sister of Lord Randolph Churchill and of the father of the present duke, would have succeeded to the dukedom, the palace of Blenheim, and the hereditary pension of $20,000 a year. Mr. Ivor C. Guest, who was the young duke's best man at the latter's wedding, and who may ultimately become the Duke of Marlborough, has his chances of succession greatly diminished by the birth of the child, and also loses by the same birth his prospective title of Marquis of Blandford.

The child born Saturday will, if he lives, inherit the titles of Marquis of Blandford, Earl of Sunderland, Earl of Marlborough, Baron Spencer of Wormleigh, Baron Churchill of Sandridge, Prince of the Holy Roman Empire, and Prince of Mindelheim in Suabia. He will be known henceforth as the Marquis of Blandford.

"Stop My Paper."

After you get angry and stop your paper, just poke your finger into water, pull it out, and look at the hole. Then you will know how sadly you are missed. A man who thinks a paper cannot thrive without his support, ought to go off and stay awhile. When he comes back, half his friends will not know he has gone and the other half will not care, while he will be surprised to learn that the world at large kept no account of his movements. You will find things you cannot endorse in every paper. The "Book of Books" is often very plain and hits some hard raps, but if you were to get mad and burn your Bible, the hundreds of presses would still go on printing it. So, when you stop your paper and call the editor names, the paper will still be published, and what is more, you will read it on the sly.

Peruvian Bitters.

LAFAYETTE, IND., August 6, 1893.
AUNT RACHAEL SPEER:

I have been using your Peruvian Bitters of late for malarial fever that I have not been entirely rid of for the past two years until now, I must say your Bitters beat everything. I used it only six weeks and began to improve the first week. I am now well and hearty and feel young again even now in this very hot weather.

Perpetual Motion.

The most wonderful of the mechanical inventions that is on exhibition at the Tennessee Centennial Exposition is the Gladish Wheel, which solves the long discredited idea of what is called perpetual motion.

This machine is placed on Vanity Fair, in one of the concessions, where a nominal price is charged for admission, and it is worth the time spent to see this discovery in mechanics for which the world has been seeking for centuries. Physics has taught that it is impossible to obtain perpetual motion on account of the operation of external forces that cannot be eliminated. Gravity was the only hope left to the scientists who were interested in the problem, and even with their last resource they found it a vain scheme.

Eighty years ago a Tennesseean decided to undertake the long unraveled puzzle and chose the force of gravity as the means of accomplishing his purpose. For 50 years he toiled with the problem; few knew of his plans and those who were let into his scheme pronounced him a fool. The old man was undaunted, however, and initiated his son into the mysteries of his purpose. This son was W. J. Gladish, and the success that has crowned his efforts after thirty years of hard labor amply repays him for the time he has spent and for the unbelief that was the only encouragement—or discouragement that his friends gave him.

It was in 1817 that the father first began his experiments in what is now Chattanooga, and now, in the year in which Tennessee is celebrating the 100th anniversary of her admission into the Union and the achievements of her sons during the past century, it is fitting that this monument to mechanical genius should be displayed to the public.

The Gladish Wheel is 12½ feet in diameter and is constructed of wood. It has 24 spokes that are set in three rows of eight each. On each spoke are two wooden spools that allow a hollow tube of heavy tin alloy to pass to the circumference or to the centre of the wheel as it revolves. Within each tube is five pounds of mercury, which is employed on account of its almost perfect mobility.

Let a spoke start at the highest point of its revolution and revolve to the right. On account of its own weight the tube that is connected with this spoke rests against the centre of the wheel. The wheel passes on until the spoke lies in a horizontal position. The moment this point is passed the mercury, which as soon as the spoke assumed an upright position in its upward course dropped to the bottom of the tube, rolls to the outer end of the tube, being then three feet from the centre of the wheel. The lever arm is three feet and the weight of the mercury is five pounds, making a force of fifteen pounds at this point. Here no work is being done, for the tube on the opposite side is exerting an equal force in the opposite direction. But, in a few seconds, this tube which we have been watching slides over the spools to the circumference; the lever arm is 12 feet, and the force at this point is 30 instead of 15 pounds which is being exerted on the opposite side, and the result is motion in the direction of the greater force and with a velocity proportional to the excess of force on the right side.

The wheel, when allowed to run alone, acquires such a velocity that it is necessary to control it to prevent it tearing itself to pieces. To this purpose a governor is applied, which is run by the power generated by the wheel.

Mr. Gladish expects to operate a series of fans and some light machinery as soon as he can have them put in. He is sanguine of great results from his discovery and expects to revolutionize methods in light machinery.

His invention has attracted national attention in the world of physicists and mechanics, and those who have seen it express themselves with wonder at the greatness and simplicity of perpetual motion, as exemplified.

It now takes two ounces of fine silver to pay for a bushel of wheat. One year ago one ounce of silver was equivalent in the markets of the world to just about one bushel of wheat.

WEATHER PREDICTIONS.

What Foster Has to Say About the Coming Weather.

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from the 20th to 24th, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about the 24th, cross the west of Rockies country by the close of the 25th, great central valleys 26th to 28th and the eastern states on the 29th.

A warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 24th, great central valleys 26th and the eastern states 28th. A cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 27th, great central valleys 29th and the eastern states October 1.

In the nortern states the week ending 18th will average cool. In the southern states that week will average above normal with a great fall in temperature not far from the close of the week.

Cool weather of this month will end in the northern states not far from 20, and warm weather of the southern states for this month, will end not far from 15th.

Heavy rains may be expected in Texas and in the Missouri valleys during the week ending 18th and dry weather in the Atlantic coast states.

To See the Men on Mars.

Prof. Lowe predicts that, by reason of the invention of a new style of telescope, by the year 1900 we will be able to see the men on Mars, if there are any there, and to examine almost as closely into affairs there as if we were only removed from the surface by the height of one of our sky-scraping buildings. Prof. Lowe is an enthusiast, but so many marvelous and seemingly impossible things have been accomplished of late that we have come to believe that nothing is impossible. If the telescope does what he predicts, it will not only be available for settling the intensely interesting questions as to the state of things on this sister world, but it will bring infinitely nearer to us all of the stars and planets, will doubtless reveal thousands of new bodies that circulate in space, while it will add to our knowledge of the composition of bodies which now sorely puzzle us.

It will let us into many of the secrets of creation which were heretofore hidden. We will most likely find out definitely what comets are composed of and will penetrate the secrets of the nebulae. And if once we are able to carry human sight through millions of miles and descern an object the size of a man, may we not begin to hope that many of the fanciful stories of visits to other worlds may be realized, and that eventually we may be able to go journeying about the universe, paying visits to peoples who live near the north star or sending colonies to settle on unoccupied worlds in the Milky way.—Pittsburg Times.

One of Two Ways.

The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second way is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back bladder or urinary passage is often, by mistake, attruted to female weakness or womb trouble of some sort. The error is easily made and may be as easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty four hours; a sediment or settling indicates kidney or bladder trouble. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, and bladder remedy is soon realized. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail. Mention REPUBLICAN and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton N. A Great Fake.

Two young men are credited with originating the greatest fake on record. They recently straddled their wheels and rode to New Mayville, a small town which divides Clarion and Armstrong counties. From there they rode out into the country about fourteen miles to the locality of the "petrified" man, who it is reported was turned into stone while blasphemously shooting at God, because the weather did not suit him. Of course they found nothing of the kind. They then hired a farmer to put on a mackintosh and go out into a field between two large trees, and stand with his gun pointed toward heaven while they leveled their kodac on him. The picture proved to be a good one and is now being engraved for an Erie paper.

The British gold bugs again have the American farmer by the throat. This time it is in the shape of 450,000 English sovereigns, or over $2,000,000 coming into San Francisco from Australia in exchange for American wheat.

A Builder's Experience.

A USEFUL LIFE RENEWED IN A REMARKABLE MANNER.

Udney Y. Wilson Was Near Death's Door. Doctors Failed to Help Him—A Home Remedy Succeeded in Saving His Life.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich.

Udney Y. Wilson, contractor and builder, living in Detroit, Mich., at 87 High Street, West, said regarding Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People: "For years I have been out of doors in all kinds of bad weather, looking after my building contracts. I have worked many days in the rain and cold to complete some building. About two years ago I noticed I could not get around as I should, and commenced to have a severe pain in my back. I tried the usual remedies without getting any relief, and for nearly a year I suffered intensely. I kept up as long as I could, as I had several contracts for buildings that had to be completed.

"At night I could not sleep. My physician said it was my kidneys, and every day I went out doors they would keep me awake nearly all the following night. Instead of getting better I became worse, and worried a great deal about my work. The doctor said I must quit work and go to bed, or he would not be responsible for my life.

"All the medicines I took only helped me temporarily. Some days I would feel better and go out a day only to be again confined to my bed for weeks at a time. One day my wife suggested that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I laughed at the idea.

"Finally when I got into such a condition that I would take almost anything in the hope of relief, I tried the pills. They helped me from the start, but I would not acknowledge it and said it was the other medicines that had just commenced to work. I disliked to own up that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills helped me, as I had no confidence in them. When I could not carry on the imposition any farther, I told my wife that the pills were helping me. I took three boxes before I was entirely cured, and we now keep them in the house all the time.

"I am not prepared to say that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will cure everything, but I know they will cure kidney troubles and general muscular weakness, as they cured me.

"I now recommend them to everyone in my neighborhood, where I formerly made sport of all proprietary remedies."

Cured of Spasms by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

THE many cases of spasms, St. Vitus dance and epilepsy that Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has cured, would alone give this great remedy wide reputation. Mrs. Walter A. Steward, 773 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., says March 3, 1896: "In 1893, while on a visit to friends our little girl was taken with spasms. We hastened home to our family physician. He did all he could but failed. We called several physicians but the spasms continued, her tongue became partially paralyzed and the doctors said she would never talk again. Night and day we watched the poor little sufferer and tried every remedy we saw advertised for such cases but got no relief. We began giving Dr. Miles' Nervine, and after taking four bottles she was running about as well and happy as ever."

THOMAS B. REED ON PROSPERITY

Reasons Why the Wheels Have Again Started.

THE REPUBLICAN PHILOSOPHER'S COMMON SENSE.

Financial Medicine Men and Calamity Howlers of Last Year Eating Crow This Year.

The Philadelphia Sunday Press of Sept. 12 contained the following article on the present business conditions by Congressman Thomas B. Reed, of Maine:

Civilization is education, but it is something more. It is not only the bringing out of the human faculties and powers, but it is also the successful application of them to the problems of life. The laws of inanimate nature we can easily understand to be inflexible. If we are once sure that we have taken observations enough, we are equally sure that inanimate nature will work the same way under what seem to us the same circumstances. Of course, we never get perfect knowledge and are always finding out exceptions. But in a general way we are always right about matter and always feel satisfied that we can predict what it will do. The steam engine will always work its machinery and the cars will always turn on their wheels.

It was not so in the beginning. We used to be very much in the dark and felt our way to all these things. But while we have come to the simple truth, that inanimate nature can be fathomed, we are as much in the dark as to the action of great bodies of men. Nevertheless, there is reason to believe that mankind as a mass acts by determinate laws; the courses and directions of which we are every day more and more finding out.

This nation has had to have a special education in finance because its circumstances and surroundings were and are different from those of any other nation in the history of the world. It is true that before our day vast empires have been peopled by immigration and have flourished. But our empire has been peopled, not long ago, but in our day, in which there has been invented every appliance to enable men to exploit the riches of the earth. Moreover, beyond any other period in the world's history capital has been essential to the utilization of the riches of lands such as ours.

COSTLY CAPITAL MAKES LASTING WEALTH.

We in the east are very much prone to blame the west for its attitude in financial struggles, but the western people are under strong temptations always. They can see the wealth of their country and all its great possibilities, and, becoming impatient at the slow approach of confidence and capital, are tempted beyond measure to use all those appliances of the art of financiering which seem so easy and are in the long run so ruinous. We had our periods, we in the east, when we ran to paper money as to a savior and found it a satan. Our very constitution, in its takin away from the states the right to issue paper money, is the result of the sufferings undergone by our ancestors in the east, which sufferings are depicted in Sumner's "History of American Currency."

We have learned the lesson, but ought not to be too impatient with those who have not. We have learned and others will have to learn that in the end it is capital which costs, that makes wealth which lasts. It is true that we may make a capital which does not cost, but it is a dangerous demon and the harness is expensive and the breakups frequent.

With our new country we are undergoing an education which older nations have attained for themselves in their own surroundings already. We have to learn for ourselves not because we are not bright enough to learn as quickly as anybody or to learn from anybody, but because our circumstances are different and our temptations greater. We think our country must be an exception and hurt ourselves much in finding that it is not.

What a nation finds out for itself, however, stays longer than what some one else finds out for it. The last few months have been full of education for the whole American people. There has been nothing really new about it, but there has been one more repetition to make the lesson solid. In time no one will dispute the sure succession of events and thereafter patent remedies for hard times and patent elixirs for prosperity will have had their day.

DOWNING OF THE GREENBACK SPECTRE.

What a striking resemblance there is between 1896 and 1897 and the years of our Lord 1878 and 1879! These years are within the personal memories of every man in middle life. In 1878 the air was resonant with denunciations of the wicked man who would not issue all the greenbacks which a suffering people demanded. Here was a sure remedy for great ills and yet the remorseless rulers would not stir a finger or print a single bit of paper.

John Sherman was denounced on all hands. Samuel J. Tilden declared that only a vast central reservoir of coin could protect us against the failure of the proposed return to specie payments in 1879. The farmer was at his worst, ruined, destroyed, eaten up by taxes and usury. Down almost to the very day of resumption the croaking came with dismal and damnable iteration. Some capitalist even proclaimed his readiness to give thousands of dollars to stand at the treasury first in the row of that vast multitude which would surely assemble on the first resumption day.

That very autumn, at the September election, the state of Maine, Mr. Blaine's own state, in a campaign under his able and skillful leadership, went over to the flat enemy, horse, foot and dragoons, changing a majority of 14,000 for sound money to a majority of 14,000 in favor of the wildest carnival of unreason that ever overwhelmed an intelligent people. When the first of January came no crowds thronged the sub-treasury corridors. Hardly a greenback was presented, and we got back to the currency of the world without a movement or a jar.

THE PROSPERITY OF 1897.

From that moment prosperity began, not the eternal prosperity of the New Jerusalem, but an earthly prosperity enduring as long as human nature would permit. New York Central was 112 and went to 130. Northwest common rose from 60 to 91; the preferred from 85 to 104. St. Paul from 29 to 79; the preferred from 66 to 100, and all the rest of them in like proportion. Of course the greenback leaders explained that this was all temporary, because no real prosperity could come without greenbacks. Nevertheless, the world went on. There was no lack of money, because we had business which paid, and whenever a nation has business which pays it can draw on the money of the whole world.

How like this are the events of the last 12 months! Prior to the passage of the tariff act we had scenes like those which preceded the first day of 1879. The offerers of the patent remedy stood by and jeered. They mocked at us when our fear came. But when the due legislation had been had and there was no further change to be looked forward to, when business had reached its sound basis, and there was a reasonable chance to calculate the future, there came a repetition of the phenomena of 1879.

Stocks have gone up, not because gamblers have played, but because men's minds have changed and the whole nation takes utterly different views of the future. A stock which is worth 40 when everything seems on the down slope easily becomes worth 80 when people feel that we are on the up grade. When you are going down into the dark nobody knows how far down you may go, and when you go up into the sunlight nobody can tell how far up you may go. Fear increases the fall; hope increases the rise.

What makes prosperity and what makes hard times?

Way down to the base of things, the causes may be different each time and perhaps incomprehensible, but on the surface they are both only the results of states of mind.

A NATION'S PROSPERITY DEFINED.

What is prosperity for a nation?

It is to have all its people at work. When all the people are at work the nation is adding to its wealth all that is possible in its day and generation. New inventions might have made it more, but for each year the labor of each nation is the sum of that year's creation of wealth.

What makes men work?

Their own mental condition. In the old savage state when any man made up his mind to work he could go into the forest and by the stream alone, and his wigwam had fish and flesh and fowl and blankets and scalps and other necessaries of life. But modern life is not so simple. Civilization is complicated beyond all hope of unraveling. For the most part all you can do is to let it unravel. It is a knot which must untie itself. No sword, even of Alexander, can cut it.

All modern making of things requires the union of many men. The prosperity of modern society demands a simultaneous action of all. When that comes everything comes. After a great smash like that of 1893 or that of 1873 there is nothing to do but wait and let the business of the world settle itself, carefully keeping meanwhile the medicine men of finance with their feathers and rattles out of the way of the sick man. When public confidence is profoundly shaken it must reestablish itself. It has been shaken by causes, and those causes must be removed.

Men and nations and the whole civilized part of the race go from one extreme to another. These alternations seem as necessary as the ebb and flow of the tides of the ocean. When the business of the world gets inflated at certain periods it will go too far, and then there must be a settlement. It must be settled who owns the property, and until that is established nothing else can be done. Those who nominally own property resist this. They hope some miracle will help. Then after settlement if any laws be deemed necessary they must be passed or there will be further delay. Some false starts may be taken, like that to which the Venezuelan war cloud gave such a chilling frost.

THE RETURN OF PROSPERITY.

But, finally, when all things are ready, something always happens which develops the fact that confidence has returned, and lo! the whole world has a different aspect. Wheels begin to turn, freight begins to move, commerce resumes her full sway, one by one each employment takes up its march and the nation as a whole goes to work again, urged on by the never dying yearnings for the increase of wealth to be consumed for pleasure or wealth to be hoarded for reproduction—until the time comes all stand fearful on the brink. When it will come no one can tell beforehand, but that it will finally come, every wise man knows.

Has it come now? Is it close upon us? It is always unwise to prophesy about the immediate future, for it may be remembered against you if you go wrong, and as you are only mortal the chances of being right are against you. It is better to phophesy about things to happen in a hundred years, or preferably in a thousand, for then if you go wrong you are all dead and distributed.

Nevertheless, all the symptoms of prosperity are here. Men are willing to lend money and sensible men are willing to take it and risk it in new enterprises. In a word, it looks like 1879.

Another encouraging symptom is that the financial medicine men are now explaining in a low tone of voice why what they said in such loud tones last year was not so. This is the prelude to the utter silence which will fall upon them in due time, a silence which will be the signal that the world has settled one other financial problem in the only way it can be settled, and that is, in the minds of the people.

A good many questions have been settled these last few years. In all the debates in the house this past session there was but one man who even mentioned the "consumer," and he was from Kentucky. In other years, if you could believe our debates, we had no population except "consumers;" producers did not exist. Not a word did we have in the debates of this year about the need of low prices. We already had them, and mouths which used to start the echoes in wild longings for low prices were devising plans for raising prices and acted as if they had never helped on what Mr. Thomas Carlyle used to call "the career of cheap and nasty."

THE RISE IN THE PRICE OF WHEAT.

At this moment these blind leaders of the blind are explaining why the rise in wheat is no help to farmers. It is only an accident, they say. Poor crops elsewhere, and so we sell at a profit; that is all. You will be no better off in the end, for such accidents cannot happen in the future. You will have to pay high prices for what you buy, and so you will be in the same case in another year as you were year before last.

What idle talk this is! The returns from the wheat crop and the other cereals spent in purchases start the nation to work. When the nation once gets to work it will not stop until it gets out of gear again, and then it will halt, and then it will go on again a succession of like events forever and forever.

These eminent gentlemen might as well say to the pendulum of a wound up clock just started: "You had better give up this weary job. You were started with a push and nobody is going to sit up nights to keep on pushing you."

Every historic period of revival has been like this. Some event at the ripe moment happens, like the resumption of specie payments, the setting of money in motion by reduction of the interest on part of the national debt, the passage of a tariff bill, which, rightly or wrongly, the people believed in. Human nature and human affairs, made ready for the change, have always done the rest.

This talk of these gentlemen about prices and accidents and this recrimination about dead and buried speeches show them to be still groping about among the underbrush, while sensible men are standing on the mountain top and beholding the earth to the very horizon's edge. The view may not be of the whole round earth, but it is better than the view from the jungle.

THOMAS B. REED.

Louise Michel Expelled from Brussels.

BRUSSELS, September 16.—Louise Michel, the notorious French anarchist, was expelled from the city to-day by the police.

She arrived this morning from Paris, accompanied by Charlotte Fauville and Brousson Louix, for the purpose of a fortnight's speech-making tour in aid of the families of the anarchists executed at Montjuich fortress, Barcelona, for the bomb-throwing outrage during the celebration of Corpus Christi at Barcelona in June of last year, and in aid also of anarchists exiled for complicity in the crime. The tour was to be undertaken on the theory that the prevailing labor disputes make the present time advantageous for spreading anarchist doctrines.

This afternoon Louise Michel and her companions were informed that warrants had been issued for their expulsion from Belgian territory. They were conducted through the streets to the railway by a platoon of police with drawn swords. A large crowd followed, menacing the police and it was feared that an attempt would be made to effect a rescue. The three anarchists will be taken across the frontier.

Back From the Grave

We cannot come, but ws can often stay our progress thither. Disease, like else, must have a beginning. All maladies tend to shorten life, and render it a species of martyrdom while they last. Malaria, kidney complaint, chronic indigestion, rheumatism—all have small beginnings, and may be stayed at the outset with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This excellent tonic and alterative is adapted alike to the prevention of disorders of the system and to their removal, and its early use cannot be too strongly advocated. To renew appetite and insure tranquil rest, there is no surer and pleasanter means than the Bitters. The effects of overwork and exhaustion, mental or physical, are counteracted by it, and the busy merchant, the tired clerk or operative and the brain weary student, author or newspaper man, derive from it present relief and future energy.

The Tax on Personal Effects

There is no doubt that, logically, the section of the tariff that relates to duties on personal effects brought in from abroad is consistent. They are foreign goods, imported by individuals, and are as much a subject of taxation as foreign goods imported by men in trade, and, perhaps, equitably even more so. The reason the law has been violated so much is because the mind of persons revolts against the justice of tariffs when so directly applied to themselves. It is difficult to outgrow this feeling, which is why those who are now called upon to pay increased duties feel aggrieved. The matter has always been very much in the hands of inspectors of customs, and this new section is more an admonition to them to a strict performance of their duty than anything else. We observe that the custom of feeing inspectors is in vogue at the New York custom-house. A New York reporter says that these fees are not given so much for the purpose of bribery as "an evidence of good will," but we fear if good will of this kind becomes chronic, the personal baggage section of the tariff law will be in danger of falling into a condition of innocuous destitude.—Boston Herald.

Catarrh for Twenty Years and Cured in a Few Days.

Nothing too simple, nothing too hard for Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder to give relief in an instant. Hon. George James, of Scranton, Pa., says: "I have been a martyr to Catarrh for 20 years constant houghing, dropping in the throat and pain in the head, very offensive breath. I tried Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. The first application gave instant relief. After using a few bottles all these symptoms of Catarrh left me. It is a great remedy."—2.

ARROYI IS DEAD.

The Assailant of the Mexican President Was Lynched.

HE WAS TAKEN OUT BY A MOB

These People Forced Their Way Into the Municipal Building, Overcame the Guards and the Deed Was Done.

SEVERAL HUNDRED IN THE BODY

CITY OF MEXICO, September 17.—A most sensational ending to the attempt on the life of President Diaz occurred this morning, when Arnulfo Arroyo was lynched by a band of the common people determined on revenge. It was an act unprecedented in the history of the country. At 1 o'clock in the morning a number of men forced their way into the municipal palace, ascended the stairway, overcame the guards and made their way to the office of the inspector general of police and killed Arroyo, whom they found there. The killing was a wild and savage scene, and was followed by a wild and noisy retreat. The assistant chief of police, who was sleeping in an adjoining room, was awakened by the noise. He arose and came into the balcony, firing his pistol as a signal for help. At the same time he called to a policeman who was in sight to make an attempt to detain the lynchers, who were making their escape. The firing of pistols and the whistles of policmen brought other officers, who succeeded in capturing a score of persons. It was not long before the inspector general and Inspector Villaviciencio arrived on horseback. When the police entered the room they found the body of the dead man lying in the middle of the floor. It was literally riddled and hacked with knife stabs. At his side were found a door bar and several knifes and other steel instruments. An examination showed that the panes of a window were broken. The men who were captured would not say anything. At 2 o'clock there was found a crowd of people on one of the side streets a few blocks from Zocalo. They were talking and discussing the lynching. They appeared to know all about the affair and were evidently in knowledge as to its orgin and inspiration, but when they were approached by reporters they suddenly became noncommunicative. On several other streets reporters found people who seemed to know all about the killing. It may be that the report spread or it may be that the people intended taking vengeance on the assailant of the president. When Arroyo was surprised by the lynchers, he was sitting in a chair in the northeast corner of what once was General Carballada's private office. There mixed with fragments of clothing was a pool of blood marking the spot where Arroyo had been stabbed. The gendarmes who were guarding Arroyo were unarmed. Over 200 people penetrated the building. When they surprised Arroyo he was in a straight jacket and could make no resistance. He seemed too terrified to speak.

THE tragic death of the assailant of President Diaz, which occurred early Friday morning at the hands of a band of the common people, is said to be an event unprecedented in the history of Mexico. It was an end of the episode that is much to be regretted, and since it would have been more seemly had Arroyo been duly tried by a court and punished in accordance with law. It is true the assault on President Diaz was a great crime, for the reason that his is the most valuable life in Mexico, but the cowardly murder of his assailant by a mob is calculated to disturb the public's tranquility and to work harm. It is quite apparent that the mob acted by the knowledge and with the connivance of the prison authorities. There was no trouble in obtaining access to the criminal's cell, and he was absolutely helpless in the presence of his murderers. All the circumstances point to the consenting knowledge of the keepers of the prison, and such an amiable disposition of themselves that the mob found not the slightest obstacle in its way. It is to be hoped this will long remain a solitary episode in the history of Mexico. She should not imitate the brutality of Indiana.

"I have been a large employer of men, and I want to say now that I was the first in Ohio to recognize organized labor. From that day I have never refused to recognize it. My prosperity is theirs, and I cannot have it without their co-operation."—From Senator Hanna's Burton, Ohio, speech.

The old Democratic "gag" about increased prices under the new tariff law is not being heard this time—the reason is that the average Democrat knows that protests againts protection are not longer popular with the people of this country.

A GRAND ENTERTAINMENT.

The Linn Street Mystery Was Explained On Tuesday Evening.

As we announced in our paper a number of times "The Linn street Mystery" would be explained on Tuesday evening, and so it was.

The lovely home of Mr. Geo. Jackson on Linn street is where this entertainment took place. The enterior of the house presented a beautiful sight as it was decorated with palms and choice flowers.

Nobody knew what this entertainment was to be like and so that created an interest and a desire to see what it would be like. The house was crowed, but every one present expressed themselves as having an enjoyable evening.

The mystery that was to be solved was an entertainment given in, six tableaux.

The first one was entitled "Spring," this presented a beautiful picture, as some of the young ladies were gathering flowers some were playing instruments of different kinds.

The next one was a garland of rose buds in this the young ladies joined a circle, and clasped one another hands which indeed made a lovely garland of the prettiest kinds of rose buds.

It was followed by a grand tableaux entitled the "Gleaners" you know in ancient times after the wheat had been cut and harvested, people were allowed to have what was left, so this represented, six women going through the fields gathering what had fallen by the way.

The fourth one was "Autumn." This was a lovely picture, as it represented the season of the year we are passing through at the present time.

The next one was entitled "Sympathy." This picture presented a beautiful sight as one of the group was sick, and the rest stood by with looks of sympathy on their faces. The sixth one, we believe, was the prettiest of all. It was entitled "Simply to Thy Cross I Cling." One of the young ladies was clinging to a cross. This part in the tableaux was taken by Miss Pattie Lane. The rest of the young ladies who took part in this entertainment were Misses Bettie Breeze, Adaline Harris, Helen Hastings Mary Jackson and Margarett Potter.

We would like to give a more complete account of this splendid entertainment, but time and space will not allow. Only this, we would like to congratulate Mrs. Jackson for the grand success that this entertainment achieved, also the young ladies for the excellent way they took their different parts. We may also say Mrs. Jackson made the costumes herself. They were of the ancient Grecian style, and certainly were very pretty.

A Bright Young Man Passes to the Great Beyond.

The visits of the angel of death are full of sorrow and hard to bear at any time; but how much more so are they when they take from a family, the young, right in the bright vigor of early manhood. An Interesting Meeting at the Chapel

On Monday evening a very interesting meeting for ladies was held in the chapel of the Presbyterian church. Miss Semmi Jenanyan, an Armenian, appeared in her native costume, scarlet silk and purple velvet, with gold embroidery, and gave the audience a very free and informal talk about her people and experience. Miss Jenanyan is a very sweet and interesting speaker and no doubt impressed upon her hearers in very beautiful language, the great necessity of supporting the Missionary cause. It was touching to hear how her own family was afflicted, four members being killed by the Turks in the late massacre. She vividly portrayed the suffering of the christians for the sake of the religion that was to bring them to Jesus. She also exhibited some curios from her native country, which she had for sale such as scarfs, aprons, stockings, dolls, spoons and jewelry, the work of the widows and orphans. The meeting from start to finish was very interesting. It began by the singing of a hymn entitled "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters." Mrs. Gainfort presiding at the organ, followed by the reading of a very appropriate passage of the scripture by Mrs. Jas. Harris. Mrs. Margaret Wilson then led in prayer followed by the singing of a hymn entitled "Gathering in the Sheaves," after which the speaker of the evening, Miss Jenanyan, took the floor and enlisted with her, in sympathy for her distant home and country, the hearts of all present.

Give these Missionaries your hearty sympathy and support, bearing in mind that of them it may be truly said, they are sacrificing their lives in the service of their holy religion.

Ed Irwin Wedded.

Ed. P. Irwin, son of Daniel Irwin a merchant of Julian, but now engaged in the hardware business at Tyrone under the firm name of Love & Irwin, was married Thursday to Miss Margaret Galbraith, of near Tyrone. The groomsman was John P. Harris. Jr., and the bridesmaid was Miss Allie Irwin, of Julian, sister of the groom. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride and although there was nothing ostentations about it the affair was very pretty. A number of relations and friends were present and had a very enjoyable time. The bride is a fine young lady and has many warm and close friends in Tyrone. The groom is an energetic young man and before going to Tyrone conducted the hardware business in Bellefonte, now in charge of his brother, Lew Irwin.
